Geneva is talking disarmament. Great Britain sought unsuccessfully to defer construction of our 10,000 ton cruisers. Japan has given veto powers to her Naval Chief of Staff and announces she will build ship for ship with us. Thus goes the campaign to weaken America.

It might be a good idea if more consideration were given by the Administration to the advice of Admiral Standley, Chief of Operations, and the General Board. Japan recognizes that only experts can handle technical aspects of National Defense. So should we.

The country should be told that the Army's mechanization and motorization program, now before the President, is not in conflict with any arms limitation program that has been suggested for the Geneva conference. It is distinctly not an expansion program nor can it be considered aggressive in any sense. It is a sorely needed replacement and modernization plan. Approve it, Mr. President, and permit the discarding of the World War motor vehicles now in use in the Army!

Our warships in Cuban waters have been authorized to land Marines in order to protect American life and property. Commanding officers had better be sure than be sorry. There is a lot of politics in the Cuban situation, little credit and a lot of blame. It is a delicate job given the Service, but it will perform it. Of that the country may be certain.

I think credit is due to the commanding officers of the 15th Infantry and the Regiment of Marines acting as Legation Guard in Peking. They have so conducted themselves in the trying times of Japanese operations that America was not in the slightest degree involved. But then, so far as the country is concerned, they only did their duty!

The newspapers are extolling the winter sartorial elegance of the CCC camp members. What is more important is that the clothing provided is seasonable. Thanks to Major General DeWitt, Quartermaster General, the equipment was obtained in ample time for cold weather. Another sample of Quartermaster Corps preparedness.

Whenever a popular movement is started, the support of General Pershing is enlisted. He has just accepted a Vice chairmanship of the National Council of 70, crime combatting division of the United States Flag Association. Former Secretary Hurley is chairman of the Council.

Journal's CCC Awards
Offered for New Period

ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL decorations to personnel of superior CCC companies in each Corps Area will be awarded for the second six-month period beginning next week.

The offer of gold medals and silver and bronze buttons for award under War Department regulations for camp excellence during the first period having resulted in such beneficial results to the service, General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff of the Army, has accepted the JOURNAL's offer for the second period.

Regulations governing the selection of a company in each of the nine corps areas also were promulgated by the War Department.

Mr. Robert Fechner, director of Emergency Conservation Work, has endorsed the awards and expressed his appreciation for re-offering them.

The text of the correspondence renewing the awards follows:

The Journal's Offer

General Douglas MacArthur,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Army,
War Department,
Washington, D. C.

My dear General:

With reference to the recent announcement of the President that the CCC camps will be continued for another six months, we have the honor to offer for your award gold medals and silver and bronze buttons, identical in character with those you have approved, for the best conducted camps in the nine corps areas for the new period.

We are deeply appreciative of the care with which the commanding generals of the nine corps areas made the selections for the six months period which closed on Sept. 1. Reports reaching us from the field and comments in the press attest the success with which the offering of these awards attained the objectives prescribed—i.e., the provision of a means of recognition for the commanders, junior officers and enlisted men and members of outstanding camps and the calling of national attention to the fine character of the work done in this connection by the Services. The enthusiasm with which the offer was received not only by the officers and men but by the enrollees them-

Attention: Mr. President

Note this typical pension case:

(Case No. 13)

Widow of Brigadier General who entered the service in 1886 and retired in 1919 after thirty years service, rendering distinguished service during the Spanish War and World War and awarded the distinguished service medal, received a pension of $30.00 under the old pension laws. Under the new acts her pension has been stopped. She was married to her husband at the time he was commissioned in 1886. She is now 73 years of age.

Surely you will not permit the infliction of this hardship upon aged and deserving women.

Heads Outstanding Unit

MAJ. A. N. STARK, Jr., Inf., USA

Co. 2414 Wins Journal
CCC Award in 4th CA

The 2414th Company of the CCC, composed of War Veterans in camp near Sumter, S. C., was selected by Maj. Gen. Edward L. King, Fourth Corps Area Commander, as the most outstanding company in the eight states covered by the Corps Area.

The judging was done on the basis of the leadership of the company commander, Maj. Alexander N. Stark, Inf., USA, the construction, arrangement and appearance of the camp, rapidity and economy with which it was constructed, the administration, discipline and morale of the company and the amount of forestry work accomplished.

Major Stark, the company's commander, is the brother of Capt. Thomas N. Stark, Inf., USA, who commands CCC Company No. 1921, Eugene, Ore., which company was selected as the most outstanding one in the Ninth Corps Area. They are the sons of the late Col. Alexander N. Stark, who had an outstanding record in the Army Medical Corps. Together with the commanders of the companies selected in the other seven corps areas, they will be ordered to Washington for the presentation of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL Gold Medals on Thanksgiving Day. The medals will be pinned on them by General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff.

The other officers on duty with Company 2414 will receive silver buttons presented by the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL as tokens of their achievement, while each of the enlisted men and CCC enrollees at the camp will be presented

Study of Living Costs
Seen as Restoring Pay

With public opinion fully aroused over the inconsistency of the Federal Government on one hand urging employers everywhere to raise wages and with the other withdrawing 15 per cent from the pay envelopes of its own employees, the Administration is going to restore at least a part and possibly all of the pay cut on the first of January.

This is the confident prediction of informed persons in Washington who can see no reason for the reconsideration of the Government's cost-of-living index other than an intention of removing the pay reduction and a desire to do it in accordance with the provisions of the "Act to Maintain the Credit of the United States." The pay reduction and the veterans benefits' cut were enacted at the last session of Congress in the act of that title and purpose. Now the Administration wants to restore part or all of the pay cut and yet not abandon the stand taken in passing that law, lest the veteran supporters cite it as a precedent in pressing their demands or the interests who demanded and got the "Credit Act" protest.

The restudy of the index of prices, which will be based at least in part upon the questionnaires answered by Government employees would not have been made, it is agreed, unless it was intended as a basis for partial restoration of the pay cut. The most important part of the recovery program is the increase of wages which in turn will result in increased purchasing and increase of business. The incongruity of the Government urging private employers to increase wages and yet heading the slackers in this field, is recognized by almost everyone. Recovery Administrator Gen. Hugh Johnson, himself publicly admitted it.

So the Federal Government, while not willing to set the example for private employers is at least going to follow their example. For wages in industry, according to figures prepared by the Department of Labor, have been appreciably raised.

"Increases in weekly or hourly wage rates averaging 24.3 per cent and affecting 1,145,576 employees were reported by 3,776 of the 18,008 manufacturing establishments reporting to the Bureau of Labor Statistics," Secretary of Labor Perkins announces.

"Wage-rate increases affecting 129,591 workers in 14 of the nonmanufacturing industries surveyed were also reported in August. In this nonmanufacturing group, the bituminous coal mining industry reported the greatest number of employees affected, 70,731 workers, whose average increases in wage rates was 19.9 per cent. Reporting establishments in the retail trade group showed increases in rates averaging 17 per cent. The canning and preserving industry also reported large numbers of workers affected by wage-rate increases averaging 25.7 per cent."

Meanwhile commodity prices continue to rise. The wholesale commodity price index prepared by the Bureau of Labor

Press Sees European Atmosphere Tense as League of Nations Meeting Begins

The American press sees prospects of trouble in Europe as the Council of the League of Nations gathers for its annual meeting. Hitler's aggressive tactics of late make the atmosphere exceedingly gloomy in the opinion of the nation's editors. Other matters of interest to the services have been the occasion of editorial comment.

"The regular annual meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations will convene today in an atmosphere as tense as any that Europe has experienced since the World War," the Louisville Courier-Journal states. "The problems confronting the body are loaded with dynamite. . . ."

"Among these are the persecution of the Jews in Germany and the German attitude toward Austria. . . ."

"The Assembly will perhaps seek to avoid these provocative and dangerous questions. No good can be served by forcing German isolation. . . ."

"But one question cannot be avoided though the Assembly will have little to do with it. That is disarmament."

"The Assembly of the League of Nations meets at Geneva today with serious problems to discuss," declares the Philadelphia Inquirer. "Arms control is for the moment the leading subject. The indications are that something like an agreement has been reached in the preliminary discussions at Paris."

States the Philadelphia Public Ledger:

"At this season, according to established custom, Geneva becomes the city of gloom. Once every, the Assembly of the League of Nations descends upon the beautiful shores of Lake Leman, and brings along in its baggage train the burden of a thousand sorrows—diplomatic, political, economical."

"There is, beyond question, ample room for pessimism at the present juncture. . . . Hitlerism, supported by a Germany which recently has shown symptoms somewhat akin to mass madness, is undoubtedly capable of causing trouble. . . ."

"But the developments of the last six or eight months seem very definitely to have been away from war rather than toward war. . . . It seems possible that European diplomacy assembled at Geneva may after all be able to avert, for the moment, the crack of doom."

Citing the award of $14,800,000 to the Coast Guard for new ships, planes and shore stations, as an aid to unemployment, the Washington Star states:

"But even more important is the fact that it will aid materially in building up a fine service for the protection of life and property at sea. . . . If prohibition by constitutional amendment soon becomes a thing of the past, there is all the more reason vigorously to enforce the laws against smuggling, which will still remain in effect. . . ."

"Only a part of the work of the Coast Guard involves the war on smugglers. Its finest traditions have been in connection with preserving the safety of life and property at sea and along the coast. Its personnel, selected by standards second to none, are more thoroughly trained, in this respect than in dropping a one-pounder shot across the bow of a rum runner. . . ."

"Public Works Administration money would look far and wide to find a better outlet than building up the Coast Guard. The money will continue for many years to return valuable dividends."

The Houston Post comments:

"It is to be assumed that in evolving his plan for abandoning 50 Army camps and spending $50,000,000 in improving others, President Roosevelt sees a way to achieve permanent economy. . . ."

"The rearrangement of Army camps as proposed by President Roosevelt should have been consummated a long time ago. President Hoover started out to do something along that line, but was deterred by the flood of protests. It is to be hoped that President Roosevelt, having set his hand to the plow, will not turn back. Our national defense is in need of being strengthened. Redistribution of the troops will be a step in that direction."

bility of the country's safety on their shoulders, receive any such pay. I'll let you guess!

Paul Mallon, a Washington news columnist who sometimes knows what he is writing about, says that "the general increase in prices will make part restoration of salary cuts mandatory." Of course half a loaf is better than no bread, but I cannot conceive failure of the President to cancel the entire pay cut and the pay freeze as well.

Rear Adm. Hutch I. Cone, USN-ret., chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board, before a Senate investigating committee is charged with encouraging a movement to subsidize American merchant marine construction. I hope he did. The country needs more American ships to handle its trade and to aid in National Defense. But no one can question—and I say this from long personal acquaintance—the high patriotism and fine sense of honor of this distinguished American naval officer.

Rear Admiral Hart, Superintendent of the Naval Academy, has appointed Edward J. Fahey, of New York City, commander of the Regiment of Midshipmen. That is an honor and a tribute to studiousness. Congratulations, Mr. Fahey.

Pay Cut Removal Foreseen

Statistics of the Department of Labor shows a decided increase for the week of Sept. 16, the last one upon which reports are available. The index for that week reached the highest point that has been attained for the present year and shows an increase of more than 18 per cent over, the low point of the year. The Bureau's index number of the general level of wholesale prices for the week was 70.5 showing that an increase of more than one per cent has taken place in the all-commodities total when compared with the previous week when the index was reported as 69.7. The retail commodity price index expected to be issued shortly does not show such a marked increase, it was said at the Labor Department, but does follow the same trend.

The questionnaire issued by the Department of Labor this week to Federal employees to be used in reconsidering the cost-of-living index upon which the pay cut will depend, was confined to civil employees. Last week the Assistant Commissioner of Labor Statistics stated that Army and Navy officers would receive the questionnaires, but the Commissioner decided otherwise. He explained that the exclusion of the services was for the purpose of speeding up and simplifying their study. The allowances for quarters and subsistence paid to officers complicated the survey, he said.

Speed was also emphasized in the questionnaire itself, for it directed that it be filled out and returned immediately. The document asked but few questions, namely, the signer's salary, length of time of employment in Washington, whether living alone or in a family group, whether anyone else contributes to the support of the family group, number of dependents, whether home was owned or not, etc. The questionnaire did not go into detail, and stated that it was a preliminary schedule only. Further reports will be sought from persons who kept a written record of their living expenses.

One interesting feature of the questionnaire is that it states that the information is desired "in connection with proposed salary adjustment."

Greet General Summerall

Veterans of the First division, A.E.F., will open their annual reunion, scheduled in connection with the American Legion convention next week, a day early in order to greet General Charles P. Summerall, USA-Ret., former Chief of Staff, upon his arrival in Chicago Sunday.

General Summerall, wartime commander of the division, is president of the division association.

General and Mrs. Summerall will be met at the station by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps Area; Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Tribune; Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, division historian, and other officials of the association.

General and Mrs. Summerall will be guests of Col. and Mrs. McCormick at Cantigny farm at Wheaton.

Adjutants General Meet

Plans to hasten the approval of appropriations for the rebuilding of National Guard camps throughout the country by the public works administration were made at the annual convention of the Adjutants General's association at the Drake hotel this week. Adjt. Gen. Ralph M. Immell of Madison, Wis., president of the association, said the reconstruction work has been advocated by the organization for years.

Elect Colonel Gilchrist

The Association of Military Surgeons meeting in Chicago this week elected Col. Harry L. Gilchrist, MC, USA, as its new president. Colonel Gilchrist, whose term as chief of the Chemical Warfare Service expired recently, will retire from active service in January with the rank of major general.

The Association opened its three-day convention Sept. 25. The first day they were addressed by Dr. Louis B. Wilson, of the Mayo Foundation.

The second day they were conducted through the Hall of Science at the World's Fair by Dr. Eben J. Carey, director of the medical section of the exhibit. Later in the day they were entertained at a luncheon in the trustees' lounge and heard addresses by Major Kelly, Rufus C. Dawes, president of the "Century of Progress," Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, and Rear Adm. Wat T. Cluverius.

Heads Relief Organization

Maj. Robert M. Littlejohn, (QMC), GSC, USA, has been selected to handle the expenditure of more than $75,000,000 to feed and clothe the needy from the country's food and cotton surpluses.

Major Littlejohn, a member of the War Department budget advisory committee, will be loaned to the Department of Agriculture in charge of the agency which will expend the relief funds, and will coordinate all Federal relief activities. A native of Jonesville, S. C., Major Littlejohn was graduated from Military Academy in 1912. He served in the Cavalry in the World War.

Will Not Delay Ship Program

The Department of State issued the following announcement Sept. 26:

"In reply to suggestions from the British Government that the laying down of any six inch gun cruisers larger than those now in existence might be deferred during the life of the Disarmament Conference or at least pending further discussion of the qualitative limitations of future ships, the American Government has replied that it did not see its way clear to alter its delayed naval construction program or to suspend the laying down of any projected ships."

Heads New Asiatic Flagship

Orders have been issued to Capt. Chester W. Nimitz, USN, commanding the USS Rigel, to command the USS Augusta, heavy cruiser, which will become flagship of Asiatic Fleet, relieving the USS Houston late in November. Captain Nimitz will relieve Capt. Royal E. Ingersoll, USN, now in command of the Augusta, who has orders to duty in connection with the fitting out of the new heavy cruiser, USS San Francisco, now being completed at Mare Island Navy Yard, and in command when commissioned.

Replace CCC Eyeglasses

The Director, Emergency Conservation Work has announced that eyeglasses of CCC members damaged or destroyed in connection with actual work may be repaired or replaced at government expense, and from CCC funds.

It is vitally important for all officers, active, retired and reserve, to keep up with service developments. Subscribe and re-subscribe to the Army and Navy Journal.

The Navy As a Career for the Enlisted Man

BY CAPT. ABRAM CLAUDE,
USN-Ret.

Former Chief Enlisted Personnel Section,
Bureau of Navigation

THE Navy of today offers to ambitious young men who wish to serve their country wide opportunity for mental and physical development and a livelihood difficult to parallel. Because the Navy defends the country's interests at home and on the seven seas, and because such highly technical training is required to operate our ships, the men in it must be carefully selected, and only the very highest type of ambitious young Americans are allowed to enlist.

The first three months of a man's life in the Navy are devoted to learning the fundamentals of Navy life, discipline and infantry drills. He is taught to take care of himself without outside assistance. He learns to scrub his clothes, sew on buttons, and to get out of his hammock promptly at reveille. He is taught that the right side of the ship is called the starboard side, the left side the port; that there are no floors, post or windows in the Navy, but that there are decks, stanchions and ports.

During the period at the training station the recruit is given certain scientific tests to determine the class of work for which he is best suited by education and temperament. Experienced officers talk to each recruit and endeavor to learn his aims and ambitions. If he expresses a desire to become a mechanic and his mechanical aptitude test indicates that he has natural ability for this trade, he is given consideration, on a competitive basis with his brother recruits, for special training in one of the mechanical trades. If the mechanical aptitude test of an applicant for mechanical training shows that he is unsuited for this work he is so informed. He is told that he will be sent aboard ship for general duties; that practically all classes of work are to be found in the Navy and that if he has any special aptitude his services will be utilized in that capacity.

Upon completion of three months recruit training men are selected on a competitive basis for assignment to the schools maintained at training stations to give primary instruction in the mechanical trades, machinist, blacksmith, coppersmith, boilermaker, carpenters, metalsmiths, and for instruction in radio (operators), electricians, stenography, pharmacy, and aviation mechanics. The length of the courses at the various schools ranges from ten to thirty-five weeks. Upon completion of training at these schools men are sent aboard ship and assigned to duties in the department of the ship for which they have been specially trained.

Men who show no special aptitude for the schools mentioned above, and men who do not desire to specialize in the above mentioned trades, are transferred to a seagoing ship upon completion of the three months recruit training at the training station. When a man goes aboard ship he discovers that practically every class of work represented on shore is found in this seagoing fortress. In addition to the trades represented by the schools on shore the man of mechanical talents can be used in the gunnery department for work on the guns, torpedoes, or the equipment that control these weapons. Men are required in the Navigator's department and are known as quartermasters; there are signalmen in the Communication department. There are positions for cooks, bakers, clerks for the ship's store, bookkeepers for the Paymaster's department. Painters are trained aboard ship as are sailmakers—the men who repair and manufacture canvas articles. Men who specialize in seamanship are known as boatswain's mates. They, too, are trained aboard ship.

Upon arrival aboard ship the recruit is generally given his preference of general duties in the Engineering department or the deck force. After a few months on board he will gravitate toward the line of work for which he is innately fitted. He will be in competition with the other men in his department and will be selected for promotion in accordance with his qualifications. Every assistance is given the industrious youngster to qualify him for promotion. Hard work and study are rewarded afloat the same as ashore. Courses of instruction are furnished men to assist them in mastering the technical details to be encountered in the higher positions to which they aspire.

Pay for enlisted personnel ranges from $21.00 a month for apprentice seaman—the rating open to first enlistments—to $157.50 a month for chief petty officers with more than sixteen years service. An apprentice seaman is advanced to seaman second class or fireman third class upon the completion of four months service. Men of corresponding rank in the various branches receive the same pay. Petty officers first class and chief petty officers are eligible for promotion to warrant rank. The pay of warrant officers ranges from $1836 a year to $4500 a year for a chief warrant officer with more than thirty years commissioned service.

After twenty years service men are eligible for transfer to the Fleet Naval Reserve with retainer pay.

Men who serve thirty years in the Navy are, as a reward for their long and faithful service to their country, eligible for retirement.

A career in the Navy affords the young man contacts with men from every state in the Union. His view is broadened, prejudices obliterated, he becomes tolerant and sympathetic, able to see the other man's point of view. From the date of enlistment the recruit begins to grow physically and mentally. He has health and vitality. He looks into the future with a steady eye, self-reliant and unafraid. He is taught to respect and obey the Constitution and the laws of his country, and to be ready at any and all times to answer the call of duty to any part of the world.

Nat. Guard Squads Honored

Upon the recommendation of the Chief of the National Guard Bureau, the squad from Company E, 111th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, has been announced as the regimental squad of the Chief of Infantry's Combat Team. Each member is authorized to wear the prescribed sleeve insignia until the winning squad is announced at the end of next year's competition. Company E is located in Philadelphia.

The members of the winning squad are: Corporal Harold H. Hoke, Privates First Class Carmine L. Carbone, Charles E. Alken, Joseph A. Bowman, and Privates Edward V. Mackin, Frank A. Rhoads, William O. Duffy and Henry Manz.

Capt. William P. Hazlett is in command of Company E, and Col. Charles C. Meyers commands the regiment.

The squad from Company E, 110th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, has been announced as the regimental squad of the Chief of Infantry's Combat Team. Company E is located at Mt. Pleasant.

The members of the winning squad are: Corporal James P. Donnelly, Privates First Class Oliver M. Hodgkins, Welly L. Love, Ernest J. Biller, and Privates James J. Watters, John S. Pravlik, Adolph T. Lacaik and Albert M. Ma-ceyko.

Capt. Ted J. Smith is in command of Company E, and Col. John Aiken commands the regiment.

Signal Corps Funds

An allotment of $176,170 to the Signal Corps, War Department, for the construction of underground cable and conduit extensions at 20 Army posts throughout the country was announced today by Federal Administrator of Public Works Harold L. Ickes.

It is estimated by reporting engineers that this program will furnish about 50,500 man-hours of direct employment.

A large proportion of the work can be started within ten days.

The individual sums covered by today's allotment are as follows:

Ft. Benning, Ga.	$6,200
Barksdale Field, La.	4,800
Bolling Field, D. C.	7,000
Chanute Field, Ill.	5,000
Edgewood Arsenal, Md.	6,500
Hamilton Field, Calif.	10,000
Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.	12,000
Ft. Jay, N. Y.	8,000
Ft. Knox, Ky.	15,000
Langley Field, Va.	4,000
Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.	9,500
Maxwell Field, Ala.	4,000
Patterson Field, Ohio	5,600
Presidio, San Francisco	15,000
Rockwell Field, Calif.	10,000
Scott Field, Calif.	6,000
Ft. Sheridan, Ill.	2,000
Ft. Sill, Okla.	12,500
Ft. Warren, Wyo.	6,500
Hensley Field, Tex.	8,000

The construction planned under the allotments consists in installation and repair of telephone and cable systems and extensions to existing facilities.

The Journal Salutes

This week the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL salutes:

Maj. Robert M. Littlejohn, QMC, USA, who has been selected to administer the President's plan to feed and clothe the needy from the nation's surpluses.

Lt. Col. John Potts, USMC, who commands the Marine training battalion on the USS Wyoming.

Comdr. William Bernard Zimmer, SC, Fleet Naval Reserve, whose selection for promotion to that grade has been approved by the Secretary.

Warrior of the Pacific Trophy

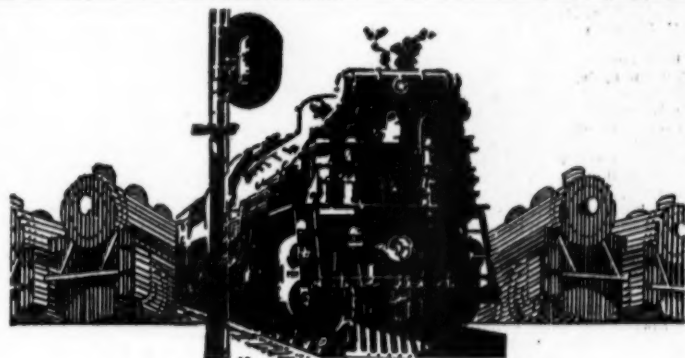

Maj. Gen. Edward Croft, the Chief of Infantry, announces that the Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit of the University of Hawaii has again won the "Warrior of the Pacific" trophy, which is competed for annually by the various Reserve Officers' Training Corps units in our universities and colleges. The average score per man of the University of Hawaii team was 211.66.

The corps area winning teams next in order of merit were:

Corps Area	Institution	score per man
2	New York University	189.84
7	South. Dak. State Col.	189.26
1	Univ. of New Hampshire	188.96

No competitions were held in the 3, 4, 5, 6, 8 and 9 Corps Areas.

The "Warrior of the Pacific" trophy was originally presented to the University of Hawaii by the people of Honolulu for their excellent rifle marksmanship in the 1925 Reserve Officers' Training Corps Camp. In 1927 the University of Hawaii presented the trophy to the War Department to be competed for yearly by Infantry Reserve Officers' Training Corps units. Incidentally, the Hawaiian School has won the trophy in all competitions so far held.

Randolph Field Gets New Class

The new class to start training at the Air Corps Primary Flying School at Randolph Field, Tex., on Oct. 12, totaling 159 students, will comprise 84 newly commissioned Second Lieutenants who were graduated from the United States Military Academy, on June 13, and 75 others who will receive training under the status of Flying Cadets, among these latter being 14 Enlisted Men of the Air Corps Regular Army, 6 Enlisted Men from other branches of the Army, and 55 Cadets from civil life.

The 84 West Point graduates who were detailed to the Air Corps for flying training, and who comprised slightly over 24% of the entire graduating class, were commissioned in other branches of the military service, existing law providing that none but graduates of the Air Corps Primary and Advanced Schools be eligible for permanent commissions in the Air Corps. Those successfully completing the one-year course in flying and receiving the rating of "Airplane Pilot," will be given a permanent status as Air Corps officers.

Gen. Short Commands Cav. Div.

Brig. Gen. Walter C. Short, USA, assumed command of the First Cavalry Division at Ft. Bliss, Tex., this week. Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, former command, left for Omaha where he will command the Seventh Corps Area. General Short took command Sept. 30 upon his return from California where he had been on a leave of absence.

General Walter C. Short was born April 2, 1870, in Columbus, Ohio. He is a graduate of the Michigan Military Academy in Orchard Lake, Michigan, where for two years he was instructor in swordsmanship. In October 1891 he was appointed a second lieutenant of Cavalry. Following his appointment to the Army, General Short served for a number of years with troops where he gained a reputation for marked ability in horsemanship. In 1898 he accompanied the Sixth Cavalry to Cuba and was wounded in the engagement at San Juan Hill. For his gallantry in this action he was recommended for brevet and cited in orders for "most gallant action under heavy fire of shrapnel and small arms, leading a detachment of men in a gallant charge on San Juan Hill far in advance of line of battle, where he was wounded twice." The War Department since has awarded General Short the silver star citation for gallantry on the same occasion.

After service in the Philippines with the Thirty-fifth United States Volunteer Infantry General Short in 1903 was detailed to duty at Fort Riley, Kansas, where he assisted in the organization of the Mounted Service School. Following a course at the French Cavalry School at Saumur in 1908, General Short was again detailed to the Mounted Service Schools as a senior instructor in equitation.

During the World War General Short was retained in the United States where he performed a variety of important duties which include the organization and command of the 337th Infantry from September 1917 to April 1918; the organization and command of the 315th Cavalry and one squadron of the 312th Cavalry from April 1918 to September 1918; the organization of the 71st and 72d Field Artillery from the 315th and 312th Cavalry; command of the 8th Infantry from September 1918 to October 12, 1918. On October 12, 1918, he was promoted to be Brigadier General and commanded the 32d Infantry Brigade of the 16th Division at Camp Kearney, California, from October 15, 1918, to February 5, 1919. During this period he commanded the 16th Division for one month.

After the World War General Short attended the Army School of the Line from which he graduated in 1920. Following a few months during which he was in charge of the Olympic Riding Team, he was detailed to the command of the 16th Cavalry and the post of Fort Sam Houston, Texas, on which duty he remained from November 1920 to May 1921. He was then transferred to the 7th Cavalry with which regiment he remained for two years during a portion of which he also organized and commanded the 2d Cavalry Brigade. In October, 1923, he was detailed on duty in the Inspector General's Department and served for a tour as inspector of the 9th Corps Area with station at the Presidio of San Francisco, California.

Ft. Monmouth Army Relief

Ft. Monmouth, N. J.—A large and appreciative crowd was in attendance here Saturday afternoon (Sept. 23, 1933), to witness the Gymkhana and Horse Show at the post polo field, Ft. Monmouth, N. J., held for the benefit of the Army Relief Society.

Chief among the equine entries to win more than one ribbon was Bardeles, owned by 1st Lt. W. A. Holbrook, S. C., of Ft. Monmouth, who won a first and two second place ribbons, the major award in the children's jumping event, in which he was ridden by Master Bob Connolly and the other two awards in the Hack and Hunter class and the Hunter and Jumper Trial.

Col. J. K. Herr, Cavalry, now on duty at Governors Island, N. Y., assisted by Maj. John H. Hinemon, Jr., Maj. S. H. Sherrill, and Capt. Fred G. Miller, judged the events.

Army Pigeons Score

Fort Monmouth Signal Corps homing pigeons won first, second and fourth place in the second Seaboard Homing Pigeon Club race flown from Washington, D. C., to Ft. Monmouth Sunday, Sept. 24, 1933.

Colonel Cooper Retires

Col. Harry L. Cooper, Inf., for the last three years in command of Ft. George G. Meade, Md., will be retired from active service Sept. 30, having reached the statutory age limit of sixty-four.

Colonel Cooper saw service in the Spanish-American War as first sergeant and later lieutenant of Pennsylvania Infantry, and in 1900 was commissioned a lieutenant in the Puerto Rican Regiment of Infantry. He was commissioned in the Regular Army in 1901.

While in France his record of service includes duty with the 36th British, the 164th French divisions, as G-3 of the 4th U. S. Division and assistant G-3 of the 4th American Army Corps. He also graduated from the Army War College at Langres, France, and served for a time as commandant of the 2nd Division Schools at Chatillon-sur-Seine.

His decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal and a silver star citation.

Upon retirement he expects to live in his new home between Washington, D. C., and Alexandria, Va.

★ BUICK GIVES MORE AND BETTER MILES

★ Wings over the world! And now, sturdy Buick wheels over the roads of America! That is the travel story of

MR. WILEY POST

★ who purchased a new Buick Eight after completing his record-breaking round-the-world flight in the Winnie Mae. Mr. Post says: "My experience in the air has taught me the vital need of a reliable engine. The Buick people have been building motor cars for thirty years—they know how to build cars that are the last word in reliability. And they've always concentrated on building Valve-in-Head Engines, which means a lot to me, because Valve-in-Head Engines are supreme in the air, and I'm also convinced that they're supreme on the road." Mr. Post stresses Buick reliability. You'll also find that Buick is beautiful, comfortable, long-lived—that Buick gives more and better miles. Choose it and you'll be choosing the ideal motor car investment.

Naval Officer Commended

Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt has commended Chief Boatwain Eugene J. Friebe, USN, attached to the USS Hannibal, survey vessel, for the performance of a hazardous duty in volunteering and taking charge of a five-oared Navy whaleboat through a terrific surf in Jaco Bay, Costa Rica, to rescue twenty men from the ship who had become stranded on the beach while erecting shore signals. The whaleboat made three trips through the surf and back to the ship and, though it turned over twice on the way in and the crew was spilled out, all the men were returned to the Hannibal without injury.

Major Stark was born at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., Jan. 4, 1896. He came into the Army from Virginia at the outbreak of the World War as a second lieutenant of Infantry and served in France from Nov. 1, 1917, to May, 1919.

He was cited in orders of the 5th Division for which he wears the Silver Star. The Distinguished Service Cross was also awarded to him, his citation stating, "His battalion being stopped by machine-gun fire in the attack of Nov. 7, 1918 (near Cote St. Germain, France), Major Stark personally led it in a renewed attack, and thus succeeded in gaining the Cote St. Germain. Major Stark personally captured a machine gun and 13 prisoners, his personal example of fearlessness encouraging his men to advance against odds."

Major Stark also was decorated by the French with the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with palm, and by the Italian Government with the War Cross. He is a graduate of the Infantry School, Advanced Course, 1927, and of the Command and General Staff School, 1928.

Other officers on duty at the camp during the period for which it was judged were Capt. Eugene O. Wells, Inf.-Res., 1st Lt. Thomas R. Aaron, Inf., USA, 1st Lt. Charles C. Harmon, Jr., Cav.-Res., 1st Lt. James M. Hobson, Med.-Res., and Capt. Louis C. LaMotte, Chaplain-Reserve.

Captain Wells comes from Miami, Fla. He was first commissioned Jan. 12, 1927. He has had tours of active duty training at Ft. Snelling, Minn., and at Fts. McPherson and Screven, Ga.

Lieutenant Aaron was born in Richmond, Va., Dec. 7, 1895. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy Nov. 1, 1918. His first service was with the 27th Inf., in Siberia in 1919, thence to the Philippines and Hawaii, returning to the United States in 1922 for duty with the 30th Inf. He was promoted to 1st Lt. Apr. 20, 1923, and served at Headquarters, 3rd Corps Area, to August, 1925. Later he went to Virginia Polytechnic Institute as Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics. He was graduated from the Infantry School in 1930, from where he went to Ft. Moultrie, S. C. Last week Major Stark was ordered back to his old station at Tampa, Fla., and Lieutenant Aaron was given command of the company.

Lieutenant Harmon comes from Odesada, Ga. He has had active duty at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., and Ft. Riley, Kans. He was first commissioned in the Reserves May 31, 1928.

Lieutenant Hobson, the medical officer at the camp, comes from Belton, S. C. He was first commissioned Jan. 30, 1925. He received training in 1929 at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Chaplain LaMotte is from Waycross, Ga. He was first commissioned Apr. 26, 1923. He has been called to active duty at Ft. McPherson, Ga., and Ft. Moultrie, S. C.

The only enlisted man on duty at the camp is Staff Sergeant Robert C. Mansfield. Sergeant Mansfield is married and comes from Columbia, S. C. He first enlisted Aug. 27, 1919, and has had unbroken service in the Army since that date. He is a second lieutenant in the Quartermaster Reserves.

Writing to the JOURNAL, Major Stark gave his men credit for the success of the camp, saying:

"The set-up is, I believe, a model one. For instance, our First Aid hut is located on a corner of the camp where an ambulance can come, turn around and go either to the town hospital, at Sumter, or the Veterans hospital, at Columbia. It is also on a direct line to the rear door of the kitchen in order that large quantities of hot water can be secured at any time.

"The Forestry department is located opposite the main entrance to the camp and, in this way, the dust and noise caused by the trucks, blacksmith shop and other workshops are reduced to a minimum. The buildings in the camp are constructed of gum slabs. We believe that this is an ideal solution for a woods camp inasmuch as it fits perfectly with the forest setting and also saves hundreds of dollars. The officers' cabin is a cypress log cabin.

"The tent area is in U-shape formation, with a park in the center, the entire area being located in a large grove of shade trees. This gives more room, better air and allows the members a chance to really get acquainted. In the center of the park area is located a rustic fountain from which running iced water can be secured at all times. The Orderly Room faces the company area, with a revolving megaphone outside. This enables us to reach each individual man at any time. The plumbing system is complete, with concrete floors, etc.

"At the main entrance is a beautiful little park with rustic benches and evergreens placed about. This not only beautifies, but it also gives the members of the company an opportunity to entertain their relatives and friends privately.

"Our baseball diamond is excellently laid out, has regular big league dug-outs and we have probably the fastest infield in the state. The tennis court is a pip and our minor athletic plants are all in excellent shape. The mess hall is large and roomy and is built in T-shape form, with the kitchen and serving counter located on the tail of the "T". It is well ventilated from top to bottom and the ventilating system in the kitchen and storeroom has been well worked out.

"The supply room is in a dandy location and would do credit to any Army post. The same applies to the Camp Headquarters. The bathhouse has sixteen showers, with a wash room in one end of the building and the dressing room in the center. It also has the latest, sanitary system. Our medical hut is also 'up to snuff' and, incidentally, one of our first aid men is the man who picked up Floyd Gibbons when the latter's eye was shot out in France.

"As to our traffic regulations, all our highways are thoroughly sign-posted and the highway system employed in the camp would do credit to any highway commission. In the center of our park we have erected a fifty-nine foot flag pole, set on a concrete base. Everything within the camp is in easy walking distance.

"As to the forestry work, the forestry work in this camp is much varied. We are constructing a new type of fire break which also serves as a feeding place for wild game. This new idea was developed by Mr. L. J. Leffelman, our chief forester. We are erecting towers and performing the usual forestry work.

The camp has been named Camp W. S. Miller for a member of the company, a former officer, who was unavoidably killed by a falling tree. As to my ideas of running these camps, I put more faith in the esprit de corps of the company than in any other one factor, in building up and maintaining the morale of the members of the company. This is evidenced every day by the willingness of the men to frequently work overtime if necessary in the construction of the camp and their evident desire to maintain discipline among themselves. This proposition has been vastly different from war mobilization, where everything was set up and you were put in a certain alley from which you could not get out if you tried. In this case, we were dumped down in a forest with a certain amount of funds with which to operate. It has been an interesting and instructive task in every detail and we have created a model outfit with esprit de corps and fair play brought up to the N-th degree.

"Too much credit cannot be given 1st Lt. Thomas R. Aaron, 8th Inf., and Captain Eugene O. Wells, Inf.-Res., of Miami, Fla., but, as in all cases, the veterans themselves brought home the bacon."

"Established in obedience to an insistent demand for an official organ for members of the American Defense and those concerned with it, The Army and Navy Journal will be published in the interest of no party; it will be controlled by no clique. Its interests will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments.—From Vol. I, No. 1, of The Army and Navy Journal, published August 29, 1903.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1933

"There are two cooperative factors in the maintenance of peace—the building of good will . . . and the adequate preparedness for defense."—HERBERT HOOVER.

WITH THE APPROVAL OF GENERAL MacARTHUR, Chief of Staff, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL will provide the gold medals and silver and bronze buttons for the second as well as the first awards for outstanding CCC camps in the nine Corps Areas. We feel it is a privilege to be permitted to make this contribution to the unselfish efforts of the Services to promote the morale of a movement of importance to the Nation. Involved in it is the attitude that nearly half a million young men, for the moment indigent, will adopt in the future towards the Government which has helped them across the bridge of hard times and unemployment. They have enjoyed the considerate care of the representatives of the Government—the officers and enlisted men of the Services, and they have had impressed upon them the virtues of honor and loyalty which their superiors live. The reports of the first six months camps are a tribute to the orderly discipline which generally has been maintained. Naturally, as the selections made establish, there was an outstanding camp in each Corps Area, and the Corps Commanding General thereof awarded the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL gold medal to its able commander, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL silver insignia to the forceful junior officers and the bronze insignia to the efficient enlisted men and cooperative camp members. Like awards will be made to the outstanding camps of the period now underway. General MacArthur is taking a keen personal, as well as official, interest in this competition as shown by his acceptance of our offer and his willingness to confer the decorations personally. Director Fechner also has expressed his appreciation of the helpful effect the awards will have upon morale. It is suggested that the experience of the past six months will enable better standards in the camps of the second period. This may be, but in any case the time available for high records is sufficiently long to assure the best camps coming to the fore. For our part, we confine ourselves to the certainty that as a result of the watchfulness of the Corps Commanding Generals the superior organizations will be selected for the honor that is waiting.

Dear Sir:

May we ask that the resolutions committee at the October convention of the American Legion consider the plight of the widows of regular service personnel and urge the adoption of a strong resolution calling for the correction of the injustice that has been wrought them under the new regulations?

As you know, the new pension regulations cut the Spanish-American War widow from $30 to $15 a month. Included in this group so severely treated are the widows of personnel of the Regular Services who, having served in that War and others, died later after retirement. Many members of this group are eligible for pension only under the Spanish War law. It is a rather cruel thing that the widows of those who served their country throughout their lifetime should, when aged and defenseless, be reduced to such a pittance.

There is another group of Regular Service widows against whom we believe the new regulations discriminate most unjustly. The widows of personnel of the Regular Army and Navy who are killed in line of duty during peacetime receive a pension of $22 a month. Widows of those who die in time of war receive $30 a month. We cannot see why there should be any difference in the pension paid the widow of a man who was lost, say in the Akron disaster or killed in an arsenal explosion, and one whose husband lost his life in time of war.

We are asking you to see that the Legion considers the plight of the widows. They are unorganized and have no official spokesman. Won't you get the strength of the American Legion behind the movement carried on by a few of us to see that justice is done them?

Very truly yours,
ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL,
By LeRoy Whitman, Editor.

WE ARE APPEALING ALSO TO THE AMERICAN LEGION to express its approval of the cancellation of the pay cut and the pay freeze. The men who served in war know the inadequacies of the pay schedules; they know that fairness demands that increased compensation should accompany promotion. They are acquainted, too, especially those who had the opportunity to serve in France and Germany, with the consequence to the natives of high prices and depreciated currencies. The NRA has produced the former; reports are insistent that President Roosevelt, who already has taken steps which have led to inflation, contemplates the devaluation of the dollar. For the white collar class, to which the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps belong, pay is fixed by law and executive mandate and higher prices and cheap dollars mean for them lessened ability to stretch pay checks over the ordinary expenses of themselves and their families. It is quite true President Roosevelt has ordered the formulation of a new index figure for the cost of living which gives promise that the 15% pay cut will be eliminated, and in connection therewith circularization of civil service employees has been begun. Why the Services should have been excluded from such circularization is one of those quirks of bureaucracy which is beyond the comprehension of the man in the street. The probable reason for such exclusion is the realization of the Administration that distributed as the Army and Navy are their costs are higher than those of other government employees, and the showing if communicated to the public would intensify the public demand for increased pay for the military. It is something that the President himself is dissatisfied with the index figure which was applied, but his dissatisfaction has not been expressed in the restoration of the pay that has been withheld. When the facts are presented, the rank and file of the Legion undoubtedly will feel that justice requires the government to treat its armed servants with fairness and consideration.

Service Humor

Not Worth It

A man walked into a drug store to have a small prescription filled. "Five cents," said the clerk. "Charge it," said the customer. "What's the name?" "Andrzejkowski." "Take it for nothing," said the clerk. "I won't write Andrzejkowski and potassium permanganate for no nickel." USS Saratoga Planetalk.

More Dope

"What caused the coolness between you and that young doctor? I thought you were engaged." "His writing is rather illegible. He sent me a note calling for 10,000 kisses." "Well?" "I thought it was a prescription and took it to the druggist to be filled." —Contributed

His Error

A young officer called an old soldier to his side one day while on field manoeuvres and said: "Just go and tell that man standing on the crest of the hill to come in." The soldier looked, and replied: "Can't see any man there, sir." "What, not over there, three fingers right of the farmhouse?" "That ain't a man, sir—that's a sergeant!" —Aero Vu

More Errors

F. E. S.—According to information furnished us by the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, if an enlisted man extended his enlistment for a period of two years then absented himself from the Navy and remained absent for a period of three years, he would still be subject to trial by general court-martial if he was returned to naval custody within two years after expiration of the period of his enlistment as extended. He could not be reinstated inasmuch as his enlistment as extended would have expired.

J. S. H.—The appointment of reserve officers being handled by the local corps areas, we advise that you apply to the commanding general in the first corps area, Boston, Mass., and if you could demonstrate your fitness for appointment you could be given a commission. There are of course certain requirements laid down as to education and experience and there are age limits which differ for the various branches. An examination is usually required. Should you receive a commission the question of your assignment to active duty with the CCC would also be a matter for the corps area commander to decide. The War Department in this connection has laid down certain principles but has left the selection of officers for this duty to the corps area headquarters.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

The Pay Freeze.—No effort should be spared in bringing every possible influence to bear to show the Congress and the administration the iniquity of the unjust and unequal pay "freeze." Without Congressional action at the next session the freeze will last until June 30, 1934. To prolong it beyond that point would require additional legislation, but the action that should be taken is for Congress to order its discontinuance as soon as that body reconvenes in January.

The effect of the pay freeze on officers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard is beyond all reasonable intent of economy, for it places the burden of loss from that cause upon the shoulders of some and not upon others. Both Departments are prepared to offer a vigorous fight against it. They should have every support the field can offer.

One of the worst things about the freeze is that it bears particularly hard on the younger officers whose pay is deplorably low at best.

For example, in the Navy when a midshipman graduates from the Academy and becomes an Ensign, he is faced with the fact that his chances of becoming a Captain are about one in thirty. He must take this into account and realize that if he is to be a success in life, he must begin to make provision for his future responsibilities. He can best do this by means of insurance. Many officers use the small increments of increase in pay provided by the 1922 Pay Act to take care of their insurance premiums and practically the only safe means available for an officer to accumulate funds is through insurance.

The pay of an ensign under the 1922 Pay Act is $125.00 per month, plus a small variable ration allowance. The class that graduated at the Naval Academy in 1930 was, by the Economy Act of June 1932, deprived of one month's pay and by Executive Order the ration allowance was reduced 13 1/3%.

This class by law after 3 years' service as Ensigns became eligible for promotion to the grade of Lieutenant, junior grade, in June 1933. The provisions of Section 201 of the Economy Act denied them any increase in pay, although they were promoted and against their base pay of $125 per month was applied a further reduction—this in their fourth year—as commissioned officers. It is submitted that an officer cannot live on such a meager salary and that if he becomes discouraged or falls into habits of gambling and gets deeply into debt, it is not to be wondered at. Of what use is it to educate him at the Naval Academy at a cost of between $15,000 and $20,000 and then subject him to unlivable conditions under which he is expected to develop into not only a reputable citizen but also a capable naval officer? In his profession he is required to be an administrator of justice, and yet these conditions develop in him a sense of not receiving justice himself.

The pay of a second-lieutenant in the Union Army during the Civil War was $112.00 per month, which is only about three dollars less than the pay of an ensign under the present law, and moreover a second-lieutenant in the Civil War did not remain long a second-lieutenant. He soon got killed or became a Colonel. The Naval Academy Class of 1930 will have to serve at least four years in this second-lieutenant status. This dolorous situation exists throughout the service.

The Naval Academy Class of 1919 now contains 120 members. Twelve members of the class were promoted to Lieutenant Commander on or before June 30, 1932, and consequently received the increase in pay to which entitled. The remaining officers are being promoted to Lieutenant Commander at the rate of about 3 a month, but are not receiving any increase of pay when promoted, although they are performing the more responsible duties of a Lieutenant Commander. These officers are, in effect, receiving a pay cut of 33.4% whereas their classmates who were promoted prior to July 1, 1932, receive only a 15% cut. This reduction brings their pay to $363.70 less than what they would have received under the 1908 schedule.

Pay of Enlisted Men.—So deplorable has become the financial status of enlisted men under the many forms of pay cuts they have suffered that the War Department has found it necessary to issue authority to corps area commanders to pay twice a month where they believe it desirable.

A circular being sent out by the Ninth Corps Area headquarters tells the story: "In view of the difficulties encountered by some married enlisted men on detached service in financing themselves over a period of thirty days under present pay and allowances, the War Department in letter of the 6th instant authorizes the corps area commander to make semi-monthly payments to such personnel within his jurisdiction when he deems it desirable.

"Commanding officers are hereby authorized to effect partial payments on the 15th of a month to those enlisted men within the above category, when it is deemed desirable to do so."

Few realize how hard hit the enlisted men are. Not only have their always meagre salaries taken the blanket 15 per cent cut extended to all government employees, but many have lost their extra hard earned pay for qualification in arms, their initial clothing allowance has been cut, causing them to go into their other funds to provide fit clothing, while their re-enlistment bonus, always considered an integral part of their pay, has been eliminated.

Vigorous effects should be made at the next session of Congress to correct this injustice to the uniformed man.

Former Aides Honor General Wood's Memory.—A tablet in memory of the late Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, former Chief of Staff of the United States Army, has just been placed in the new Harvard Memorial Church in the Harvard Yard by the 16 men who served as his aides-de-camp. General Wood was graduated from the Harvard Medical School in 1884 and was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in 1899.

The unveiling ceremony will be held Oct. 9, the date of General Wood's birth. The inscription on the tablet is as follows: "In happy remembrance of Leonard Wood, 1860-1927, Doctor of Medicine and of Laws, Harvard University. Soldier, Saver of Lives, Lover of Manly Sport, Restorer of Provinces Abroad, Forger of Sword and Shield at home. This tablet is placed here as a Tribute of Lasting Devotion by Those whose privilege it was to serve him as Aides-de-Camp."

Following is a list of the aides who served with General Wood: Capt. William F. Judson, Philadelphia; Hon. Matthew Elton Hanna, Guatemala City; Col. Edward Carpenter, Boston; Brig. Gen. Halstead Dorey, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.; Col. George T. Langhorne, Chicago; Col. John R. Proctor, Ret., Paris, France; Col. Gordon Johnston, Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga.; Maj. Russell Osmun, QMC, Washington, D. C.; Maj. Landon Thomas, Augusta, Ga.; Maj. John C. H. Lee, CE, Washington, D. C.; Maj. George von L. Meyer, Boston; Brig. Gen. Osborne C. Wood, Santa Fe; Maj. Burton Y. Read, AGD, Boston; Maj. Robert C. Candee, AC, Panama Canal Zone; Col. Edward Bowditch, New York; and Lt. Col. Sumner M. Williams, QMC, Washington, D. C.

Army and Navy Modernization Programs.—While hope is still held at the War and Navy Departments that funds will be granted by the Public Works Administration for the Army and Navy modernization programs, it is not believed that the Public Works Board will approve funds for these important plans unless an issue is made of the matter and President Roosevelt is called upon to make the decision. Secretary Ickes, Public Works Administrator, gave a rather strong intimation that the two programs had been shelved when questioned regarding them by newspapermen recently. Without saying anything which would commit him in the matter, Mr. Ickes indicated that he considered the programs had no chance. It will be remembered that what was described as the "first split in Roosevelt Cabinet" developed several months ago over the Army modernization plan, when Secretary Dern asked that action be deferred on the program as a result of Secretary Ickes' opposition. Ickes, it was said at the time, did not believe the building up of the Army and Navy to meet the test laid down for public works items of being "socially desirable."

Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, however, told newspapermen this week that he did not regard the Navy's modernization program to be dead. He stated that the Navy was preparing, at the request of the Public Works Administration, estimates of the number of men who would be given employment by the Navy program. At the War Department, also, the modernization is still regarded as a live issue. It was pointed out, that while the proposed increase of the Air Corps would be subject to what may be done at the Geneva Disarmament Conference, this reason for holding back of the proposed motorization and mechanization of the Army does not exist, for it is not involved in whatever may come out of the Conference in way of limitation.

No CCC allotments abroad.—The War Department has advised the corps and commanders as follows:

"The Director, Emergency Conservation Work, by his decision dated September 15, 1933, informs the War Department that no CCC allotment will be sent to an allottee who resides in a foreign country. It is desired that all such allotments now in force be canceled and that new allottees conforming to the foregoing decision be designated by each man concerned."

Appointment of Army Medical Officers.—Officials of the Surgeon General's Office at the War Department are considering the initiation of legislation to permit the appointment of medical officers on a probationary status. In recent years, before appointment as a first lieutenant of the Medical Corps, Regular Army, a doctor served some months as a Reserve officer on active duty, which enabled the elimination of those unsuited for a military career. Both internes and qualified doctors, seeking appointment in the Army were, if qualified, commissioned in the Medical Corps Reserve, placed on active duty, and at the end of a period of months, a number were selected for the Regular Army. This was possible because of the hospitalization of Veterans Bureau patients in Army hospitals, funds appropriated from that agency being used to pay the additional doctors necessary. With the great curtailment of veterans treatment, the patients and the funds for payment of Reserve officers were withdrawn. Incidentally, the Army can no longer recruit its Regular officer personnel in this manner.

It being desired that the Medical Department have some means of observing a doctor before giving him a commission in the Regular Army, the Surgeon General's Office is giving attention to the problem. Under existing law, it is possible to appoint internes to serve one year in Army hospitals at $60 per month with rations and quarters, on a civilian employees basis. It will be possible to sufficiently observe these doctors and give Regular Army commissions to those deemed qualified. This does not solve the problem, however, as qualified doctors, who have served their internship elsewhere, can only be appointed directly in the Regular Army. Thought has been given to seeking legislation allowing their appointment as Reserve officers for six months or one year periods, but such a proposal would be sure to meet opposition from the Reserves. Money for the pay of these "probationers" would be carried in the appropriation for Reserve training. It would make necessary an increase in this appropriation without any training benefit for the Reserves. It is believed that the solution lies in seeking legislation allowing officers to be appointed in the Medical Corps of the Regular Army with commissions revocable during the first year of service. This would allow the Medical Department to obtain a part of its officer personnel by training internes under the old system and giving them permanent commissions in the Regular Army at the completion of their internship and the recruitment of others by giving the fully qualified doctors temporary commissions.

RATES.—$4.00 a year to individual members of the Services, active, retired, Reserve, and National Guard and their families; $6.00 a year to organizations and civilians.

The next examination for appointment in the Medical Corps of the Regular Army will be held some time right after the first of the year, it is expected. From present indications there will be approximately forty vacancies to be filled during the next fiscal year. Some 80 applications have been received to date, a number of them being from Reserve officers now on six months' active duty at Civilian Conservation Corps camps. Examinations for appointment in the Dental Corps, Veterinary Corps and Medical Administrative Corps will also probably be held this winter. No definite plans have been made as yet for these examinations, for the War Department has not yet allotted to the Medical Department its authorized strength for the fiscal year 1935. There are at present three eligibles for appointment in the Dental Corps who are not expected to be given commissions. In the Medical Administrative Corps, however, there are now five vacancies, and it is expected the number appointed during 1935 will be in excess of this number.

Cuba's Army and Navy—The turbulent situation in Cuba and the part being played there by the Cuban military serves to focus attention on the military and naval set-up of that little republic.

The latest figures contained in the League of Nations Armaments Year-Book for 1933, now being distributed in this country through the World Peace Foundation, Boston, are illuminating. They show that Cuba reported a total of 13,155 effectives and 867 officers in its Army and 1,159 effectives and 153 officers in its Navy.

The supreme command of the army is vested in the President of the republic who exercises his powers in time of peace through the secretariat of the army and navy and through the Chief of Staff. The island is divided into eight military areas.

There are four Infantry battalions, each consisting of a staff, 4 companies, a machine-gun section and a horse-drawn train section. Each of the six regiments of Cavalry has a staff, three squadrons, a machine-gun section and a horse-drawn train section. In the artillery there is one field artillery battery, two mountain artillery batteries and three coast artillery battalions. Each battalion of the coast artillery consists of a staff, four companies, a machine-gun section and a horse-drawn train section. The report on the Air Force gave 16 fighter, observation and training airplanes with a total horse-power of 5,590. In addition there are two companies of engineers and two Signal Service Companies (telegraph, telephone and wireless).

Other organizations include the Gendarmerie, Rural Guards and Police. The Gendarmerie forms part of the Army and comprises 38 squadrons. The rural guards, a military organization employed in time of peace to maintain order and protect life and property, has a maximum establishment of 42 squadrons, numbering 4,657 privates. The National Police are under the authority of the Secretariat of the Government and count 2,241 officials and agents.

Military service is compulsory for all citizens between the ages of 18 and 45 but lately in practice service has been voluntary with two-year enlistments. Enlisted men are retired at 58 years of age. Officers are obtained from the Cadet School at Moro, Havana, and from among the non-commissioned officers who have passed through the NCO school.

The military education system involves 14 types of schools. The cadet school at Moro trains for commissions. A practical training school for Cavalry and Infantry is maintained at Columbia for officers. A practical training school of Artillery is maintained at Cabana for officers. Each battalion or district has a corporals school and also a recruiting school. There is a garrison class in each military station. There is also an academy for NCO's and corporals. The flight training school is maintained at Columbia as is the veterinary and farriery school. At Havana there is a school for motor drivers and an armourers school. For the Navy there is a Naval Academy, a Naval School at Mariel and a school for Naval mechanics.

The Navy has two cruisers, the Cuba (1911), and the Patria (1911), the latter being a training ship. The Cuba is of 2,055 tons and measures 260 by 39 by 14 feet. It has a horse power of 6,000. Its guns comprise two 4-inch, six 3-inch, four 6-pounders, and four 3-pounders. The Patria displaces 1,200 tons and is 200 by 36 by 13 feet with a rated horse-power of 4,000. Its guns consist of two 3-inch, four 6-pounders, and four 3-pounders. In addition there are gunboats, 13 units of a total tonnage of 2,425 tons, with guns of a calibre of 3 inches, 2.24 inches and 1.46 inches. The total tonnage of the navy is 5,680.

The estimates of expenditures for the Secretariat of War and the Marine for 1932-33 total 9,800,000 pesos.

Dominican President Requests Services of His Former Marine Commanders—The Secretary of the Navy has announced that Maj. Thomas E. Watson, USMC, has been issued orders to proceed to Santo Domingo City, D. R., and report to the President of that country, General Raphael Trujillo, for duty in connection with the training of the Dominican Army.

Major Watson was at one time (1920-1923) President Trujillo's commanding officer, when the President was a Captain in the National Army of his country, and from 1922 dates a very close friendship. Now Major Watson has been requested by the President to act as an adviser in matters pertaining to operations and training of the Army of the Dominican Republic.

Major Watson enjoys a splendid reputation in the Marine Corps, having served with distinction in both the Dominican Republic and Nicaragua. He speaks Spanish fluently, having been a language student in Spain. He was born Jan. 18, 1892, in Oskaloosa, Iowa, and entered the Marine Corps in 1916. In the same year he was sent to Santo Domingo on expeditionary duty, and it was at this time that the then Private Trujillo was first contacted. At present Major Watson is on duty in the Division of Operations and Training, Headquarters U. S. Marine Corps. In his new venture he carries the best wishes of his brother officers in the Marine Corps.

At the request of President Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, 1st Lt. Gregon A. Williams, USMC, is being ordered as an assistant to Major Watson in the operations and training of the Dominican Army. Lieutenant Williams' history shows that once upon a time President Trujillo was a private in Lieutenant Williams' company when Lieutenant Williams was detailed for constabulary duty with the Dominican National Guard, and the story runs that Lieutenant Williams gave President Trujillo his first promotion, that is, from private to corporal. It is from this time that the association with the President dates, in March, 1924.

Lieutenant Williams was born in Carrollton, Ill., Jan. 8, 1896, and later his parents moved to San Diego, Calif. He has been an officer of the Marine Corps since January, 1923, during which time he has served in Nicaragua with the American Legation Guard, at Marine Barracks, Quantico, Va., with the 5th Regiment, on mail guard duty at St. Louis, Mo., at Parris Island, S. C., San Diego, Calif., and in China. At present he is on duty in the Division of Operations and Training, Headquarters U. S. Marine Corps. In his new duty he has the best wishes of his brother officers of the Marine Corps.

Ordnance Department Notes—An order has recently been placed by the Army Ordnance Department at Springfield Armory for the manufacture of 1,500 U. S. Rifles, caliber .22, M2, for issue to the Regular Army. These rifles will be ready for distribution in the late spring of 1934. It is contemplated increasing the authorized issue of caliber .22 rifles from five to ten per Infantry and Cavalry organization.

A total of 1,350 Browning machine guns, caliber .30, Model 1917, are being modified at Springfield Armory so as to convert them into a like number of U. S. machine guns, caliber .22, M1. Fifty of the new M1 machine guns are for issue to the U. S. Marine Corps, 100 are for the National Guard Bureau, and 1,200 are for issue to the Regular Army. The above guns will be available for issue to the using services about July 1, 1934. Pilot models of the U. S. machine gun, caliber .22, M1, have been tested by the Infantry, Cavalry and Coast Artillery Boards under the nomenclature of "T1" and all have recommended its adoption.

A method has been devised and approved for exercising major caliber harbor defense and railway materiel additional to actual firing. The method provides suitable air valves whereby after the tipping parts have been elevated to maximum elevation, the air in the recuperators is released thus allowing the gun to slide back to fully recoiled position. After inspection of rods, packing, etc., the recuperator is refilled with air from air bottles and the gun brought back to battery position. This method is not intended to supplant exercises by firings but is supplemental thereto and will be used where firings are not practicable. Instructions for its use are being prepared for issue.

The second battery of Field Artillery Trainers, T5E1, has been transferred from Ft. Bragg to Ft. Sheridan. The 1st Battery, T5, has been demonstrated at Ft. Myer and in the City of Washington. Advertisements have been issued calling for bids on the manufacture of about 300 of these trainers.

N.R.A. Hours for CCC—A 40-hour week for the enrolled men of the CCC has been made official in War Department Regulations, Civilian Conservation Corps, issued this week as follows:

"Paragraph 26½, War Department Regulations (Provisional), Civilian Conservation Corps, April 5, 1933, as added by CCC Circular No. 12, War Department, July 3, 1933, is rescinded, and the following substituted therefor:

"26½. Hours of work.—a. Except in emergencies, the hours of work for the enrolled men will be 40 per week, made up of 8 hours per day for the period Monday to Friday, inclusive, except that when weather conditions or other causes prevent work during this period the time will be made up on Saturday of the same week, subject to a daily maximum work period of 8 hours. The day's work of 8 hours will include the lunch hour and not to exceed 1 hour of the time required for travel from camp to work and return to camp. When the distance between the camp and work requires more than 1 hour travel time round trip, the time of departure from and return to camp will be fixed so as to permit 6 hours per day work on the job, exclusive of the lunch hour. The lunch period will not exceed one hour including the time required to go from the place of work to the lunch point and return to work.

"b. The men will be subject to emergency calls by the camp superintendent of the work agency on any day at any hour of the day or night for the purpose of fighting forest fires, or in similar emergencies affecting life or property. While such emergency lasts, the daily hours of work will be determined by the Federal or State officer in charge of the crew on the emergency work, in consultation with the company commander with a view to the preservation of the health of the enrolled personnel.

"c. During periods of critical forest fire danger as determined by the camp superintendent, all or part of the men will be held in camp on non-working days or after regular work hours at the request of the camp superintendent, in order to be immediately available for forest fire control services.

"d. When fire fighting or other emergency requires work in off-duty periods, an appropriate period, not exceeding the overtime put in on emergency work, may be allowed immediately after the conclusion of the emergency for necessary rest and recuperation, but this will not be construed to permit credit for overtime due to emergency to accumulate as leave to be taken at some future time."

selves is proof of its morale value. Therefore, we take the liberty of making this additional offer for the period which has just begun. We request that the regulations to be issued by the Department state specifically that the camps which won the awards during the first six months period shall be permitted to participate in the selections for the second period. If any such camp again shall be chosen, we beg to offer in lieu of the medal a gold oak leaf cluster for the commanding officer, a silver oak leaf cluster for the junior company officers, chaplains and medical officers, and bronze oak leaf clusters for the enlisted men and members of the camps.

We respectfully request further that as the medals will be conferred by you upon those camp commanders selected for the awards during the first period, you likewise will confer the medals upon the winners of the second six months period. Assuring you of our keen appreciation of your kind attitude in this matter, we are,

Very respectfully,
ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL,
by John Callan O'Laughlin, Publisher.

GENERAL MACARTHUR ACCEPTS
Col. John Callan O'Laughlin,
The Army and Navy Journal,
1701 Connecticut Ave., N. W.,
Washington, D. C.
Dear Colonel O'Laughlin:

Beyond doubt the generous action of the Army and Navy Journal in providing suitable insignia for award to the officers, enlisted men and members of the CCC camps that, during the first six months of their existence, were adjudged the most efficient in their respective Corps Areas, has had a noticeable and beneficial effect on the morale and accomplishments of the whole organization. It is therefore with real gratification that I learn of and accept your proposal to provide additional insignia, identical to those originally awarded, and to be competed for by CCC units during the ensuing six months under the same standards of comparisons that applied in the first instance.

Necessary regulations will be promulgated by the War Department immediately. In these it will be specifically provided, as you suggest, that winners of the first competition are to be eligible, equally with all others, for consideration when the new awards are adjudged.

I have every confidence that the results attending this second competition will be fully as commendable as those accomplished by the first. It seems scarcely necessary to assure you of my deep appreciation of your generous and effective assistance in promoting the morale and welfare of the CCC.

With cordial personal regards,
(Signed) Douglas MacArthur,
General, Chief of Staff.

MR. FECHNER ENDORSES

Col. John Callan O'Laughlin,
The Army and Navy Journal,
1701 Connecticut Ave., N. W.,
Washington, D. C.
Dear Colonel O'Laughlin:

Through the courtesy of General Douglas MacArthur it has come to my attention that the Army and Navy Journal has renewed the generous offer to provide suitable insignia to be awarded to the outstanding Emergency Conservation Work camp and its personnel for meritorious work, during the second six months period of this organization.

I know personally that your original offer of similar character created a fine friendly competition among our camps and I am sure was most beneficial. I want to thank you and your organization for again offering these rewards.

Sincerely yours,
Robert Fechner
Director

New Instructions

The Secretary of War has sent the following instructions to all Corps Area Commanders:

"In the belief that the selection by Corps Area Commanders of outstanding companies of the CCC has had a beneficial effect upon the entire organization, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL has offered and the War Department has accepted a renewal of the award for the ensuing six-month period.

"Regulations governing this award are as follows:

"Each Corps Area Commander will select and report to the War Department prior to March 1, 1934, the outstanding CCC Company in his Corps Area, with the name of the company commander.

"The basis of selection outlined in War Department air mail letter of August 2, 1933, is revised as follows:

Subject Weight
"(1) Leadership and Initiative... 100
"(2) Camp Administration and Operation... 300
"(3) Work accomplished for technical services... 600

"Companies which were selected for award in the first six-month period are to be considered for selection in the ensuing six-month period on the same basis as all other companies.

"Awards:

"(1) For initial winning of competition:
"(a) Gold medal to each winning company commander.

"(b) Silver button to each of the other officers of winning companies.

"(c) Bronze button to each enlisted man and each CCC member of winning companies.

"(2) For repetition of winning:

"(a) A gold oak leaf cluster for each winning company commander who participated in the prior award to his company. A gold medal to each company commander who did not participate in the prior award.

"(b) A silver oak leaf cluster for each officer with winning companies who participated in the prior award. A silver button to each who did not so participate.

"(c) A bronze oak leaf cluster for each enlisted man and each CC member of winning companies who participated in the prior award. To each who did not so participate, a bronze button.

"With their reports of selection, Corps Area Commanders will report the total number and character of medals, buttons and clusters required for their winning companies as of the date of selection.

"It is the intention of the War Department to order winning company commanders to Washington for presentation of their awards."

Coast Guard News

Headquarters has been in a turmoil all the week. The Commandant's office and most of the rest of Headquarters is being moved from the Treasury Annex at Pennsylvania Avenue and John Marshall Place around the corner to the Wilkins Building.

Furniture is being lugged about, blocking corridors and monopolizing the elevators. Floors are being scraped and telephones installed. Things are rather upset at present, but when everything is settled the new quarters are expected to be satisfactory. The Wilkins Building is an old office building, purchased several years ago by the Government. It is on the south side of H Street, between 15th Street and Vermont Avenue, N. W. The Coast Guard will have the building to themselves, but the Construction and Repair, Engineering, Radio and Civil Engineering divisions will remain on the 6th floor of the Treasury Annex for the time being.

Moving operations were under the direction of Acting Commandant Coville, for Admiral Hamlet left early in the week on a much needed vacation. He has been in Washington practically all of the summer and working like a Trojan to get the new building program approved.

The past fiscal year was a banner one in the life saving annals of the Coast Guard. A total of 6494 lives were saved during the 12-month period ending June 30, 1932, approximately 1200 more than in the fiscal year 1932 and 400 more than in any year before.

The Coast Guard is handling the Potomac Regatta being held at Washington today and tomorrow. The cutters Apache and Mendota and four patrol boats are on hand with Lt. Comdr. Merlin O'Neill in charge.

ORDERS TO OFFICERS

Lt. Comdr. (E) J. N. Heiner, detached Base Two, effective October 2, 1933, and assigned as Engineer Officer, Cayuga.

Lt. C. M. Perrott, detached Cayuga, effective October 2, 1933, and assigned Headquarters.

Mach. (T) James S. Shelton, detached Base Nine, and assigned Headquarters.

Air Corps Construction

Army Relief Benefit

The Army Relief Society which will benefit by the proceeds from the Military Exercises and High-Goal Polo Match to be held at Governors Island Saturday afternoon, Sept. 30, was founded in 1896 at the close of the Spanish-American War, Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan said in an announcement this week.

A group of women in New York and others elsewhere who were closely connected with the Army had been interested in raising funds for Cuban orphans and found their sympathies aroused by the plight of many of the orphans of men who had been in the American Army. A meeting was held in the fall of 1896 at the home of Mrs. Daniel S. Lamont and the Army Relief Society was then founded and in 1900 it was incorporated. Present at the meeting when the Society was founded and active since in its affairs were Mrs. Charles F. Roe, Mrs. Albert L. Mills, Mrs. James G. Harbord, Mrs. Richard C. Colt, Mrs. Francis Gibson, Mrs. James B. Burbank, Mrs. Louis Fitzgerald, Mrs. Samuel Reber, Mrs. Louis M. Maus and Mrs. Joseph E. Duryea.

General Francis V. Greene was the first president. In 1900 Mrs. Lamont became president and continued in office until her death in 1917. She was succeeded by Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, who resigned in 1928 when she went to the Philippines. Mrs. Arthur W. Page succeeded Mrs. Stimson and is the present president.

Maryland Reservists Meet

The Reserve Officers Association of the United States, Department of Maryland, held a well attended meeting in the War Memorial Building, Baltimore, on Thursday, under the presidency of Col. W. McI. Wolfe, Eng-Res. A brilliant and inspiring address on leadership was delivered by Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding general, Third Corps Area.

Col. John Callan O'Laughlin, publisher of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, spoke on the relation of Reserves to National Defense, and the importance of an aroused public interest on behalf of adequate appropriations, described the effective work performed by General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff, in obtaining allotment of funds for the preservation of the Regular Army, the National Guard, and the Reserves, and complimented the Reserve Officers Association in securing an additional million dollars from the Treasury after rejecting a proposal to take this from the funds assigned to the regular establishment.

Maj. Bennett A. Molter, Air-Res., national secretary of the Reserve Officers Association, spoke of the importance to National Defense of membership in the Association—a fact which should be recognized by all reserve officers.

ARMY FACES MERCER IN OPENER

With prospects poorer than of any team in recent years, Army will open its football season today at West Point, meeting Mercer University of Macon, Ga.

Lt. "Gar" Davidson, Army head coach has been hard at work during the training period, trying to fill the vacant places in last year's team. Jablonsky, captain and guard, Kopcsak, end, and Brown halfback, are the only regulars left.

A difficult schedule faces the inexperienced Army team. It is as follows:

- Sept. 30—Mercer University.
- Oct. 7—Virginia Military Institute.
- 14—University of Delaware.
- 21—University of Illinois.
- (At Cleveland, Ohio).
- 28—Yale (At New Haven).
- Nov. 4—Coe College.
- 11—Harvard (At Cambridge).
- 18—Penn. Military College.
- 25—Navy (At Philadelphia).
- Dec. 2—Notre Dame (At New York).

NAVY OPENS FOOTBALL SEASON

Navy will open its football season today against William and Mary and will endeavor to wipe out the unexpected 6 to 0 defeat handed them by the Indians last season.

Both teams which face each other at Thompson Stadium at 2.30 will be composed largely of veterans, many of them having played in last year's close battle. A good game is looked for and a large contingent of Navy folk from Washington is expected.

The probable Navy lineup—L. E. Murray, L. T. Brooks, L. G. Shaffer, C. Harbold, R. G. Burns, R. T. Cutter, R. E. Miller, Q. B. Becht, R. H. Walkup, L. H. Baumberger, F. B. Clark, W. C.

The schedule follows:

- Sept. 30—William and Mary College (at Annapolis).
- Oct. 7—Mercer University (at Annapolis).
- 14—Univ. of Pittsburgh (at Pittsburgh).
- 21—Univ. of Virginia (at Annapolis).
- 28—Univ. of Pennsylvania (at Philadelphia).
- Nov. 4—Notre Dame Univ. (at Baltimore).
- 11—Columbia University (at New York City).
- 18—Princeton University (at Princeton).

A Buck Private Writes

"Over the Top With the 80th," by A Buck Private. For sale by the Author, Rush S. Young, 1430 Belmont street northwest, Washington, D. C. $1.35 per copy, postpaid.

Fifteen years after the "Blue Ridge Division" did its part with such distinction in the Meuse-Argonne operation, a Buck Private, Mr. Rush S. Young, gathers his notes together and relives those stirring days for himself and his vallant comrades in the pages of "Over the Top With the 80th."

Distaining claim to literary merit, Mr. Young writes a straightforward narrative, impressive in its simplicity, of the day to day events in the history of the 80th from its organization at Camp Lee, Va., through to its return to the States after the War. It's all "eye witness" material, from history as viewed by a participant down to those little salty remarks so much cherished in the memory of those present and so much enjoyed upon retelling by those not present. At least, its all "eye witness" until Private Young stopped a machine gun bullet and from there on he collaborates with his Buddy, Garland Derry, for the balance of the narrative.

The 80th saw plenty of action. It was, it is recalled, "the only combat division in the A. E. F. to be given a major role in all three phases of the Meuse-Argonne Offensive." The volume is replete with references to personalities so well known in the service—Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, Col. Frank S. Cochen, Col. Briant H. Wells, Col. Ephraim G. Peyton, Brig. Gen. Lloyd M. Brett, Brig. Gen. George H. Jamerson, Lt. Col. James M. Love, Jr., Maj. Albert B. Dockery, Capt. Senius J. Raymond, Capt. Paul D. Connor, Capt. Charles C. Griffin, Capt. Corvan Fisher, Maj. Gen. G. W. Read, Col. G. R. Spalding, Maj. S. Whipple.

These names and many others will recall to ex-members of the 80th those days in France.

The volume is illustrated with portraits and action pictures, as well as maps and reproductions of documents and orders pertaining to the 80th.

Interesting and sincere, "Over the Top With the 80th" will be a valued addition to any military library and closely read by anyone who opens its pages.

son of Mr. and Mrs. Powers of Boston. Miss Wrightson is a granddaughter of the late Surgeon General, USA, and Mrs. William Crawford Gorgas.

Lieutenant Powers is a graduate of West Point in the class of 1932.

Mr. and Mrs. Jelks Henry Cabaniss, of Birmingham, Ala., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Morris Cabaniss, to Lt. Henry Chesley Daniel, USN.

Miss Cabaniss attended Ogontz School, at Philadelphia, and made her debut last year. She is a member of the Junior League of New York.

Lieutenant Daniel is the son of Mrs. Henry May Daniel and the late Mr. Daniel, of Washington and North Carolina. He was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1924 and is stationed there as an instructor.

Miss Elizabeth Colgate Rumbough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Maddox Rumbough, of New York, and Lloyd Neck, Huntington, was married at Huntington, L. I., Sept. 23, to Mr. Francis Russell Cowles, son of Mr. Russell A. Cowles, of New York City. The wedding took place on the lawn at Elstan Oaks, the Rumbough home, with Dean Henry B. Washburn, of Cambridge Theological Seminary, great-uncle of the bride, officiating. A large reception with dancing followed.

Mr. Rumbough gave his daughter in marriage. The Misses Marian T. Hope and Constance Chambers were maids of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Graham Hoyt, the former Marguerite Rickard, of New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. William Brainerd, who was Katrin Victor; the Misses Frances Child, of Newark, N. J.; Comfort Parker, Frances Rousmaniere and Dorothy Clark. The bride's two double first cousins, Grace Colgate Rumbough and Florence Colgate Rumbough, were flower girls.

Mr. Cowles' best man was his brother, Mr. Ernest F. Cowles. The ushers were Messrs. Nelson Adams, Richard Knight, Thomas Terbell, John Gerli, Harold Wilson, all of New York; Ford Draper, of Wilmington, Del.; Sealy Newell, of Greenwich, Conn.; Alfred Ogden, of Kinderhook, N. Y.; William Hodges, of Desver; Arnold Burns, of Peabody, Kan.; John Wilson, of Chicago, and David Clement, of Buffalo.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. David J. Rumbough, of Washington, and the late Colonel Rumbough, USA, and of Mr. Gilbert Colgate, of New York City, and the late Mrs. Colgate. She made her debut in 1930 and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Cowles is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Abernethy Cowles. He was graduated from Yale in 1932.

NORFOLK, VA. Sept. 23, 1933

Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the officers of the British flagship Norfolk, commanded by Vice-Adm. Honorable R. A. B. Plunkett Erle-erie Drax of the Royal Navy which will arrive at the Naval Base tomorrow with fifty officers aboard and which will be in Virginia waters for six days. The first public entertainment will be a ball Saturday night in Victory Hall, at the Naval Operating Base for Admiral Drax and his officers. The ship will be open to visitors on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. A luncheon at the Norfolk Country Club on Monday, when Rear Admiral Byrd is expected to be present, will be one of the outstanding events of the week's program of entertainment. There will be oyster roasts, and about twenty private dinner parties given by officers of the Navy stationed here. Rear Admiral Arthur L. Willard and Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith are being assisted by the Naval Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, British Consul General, James Guthrie and Mayor S. L. Slover. Among the distinguished guests from out of town in addition to Admiral Richard Byrd will be Governor Pollard, Adjutant General Waller and other state officials.

Flight Pay Reduction

What reduction in service flight pay will be made still remains undetermined, with the study of the problem by the Bureau of the Budget still incomplete.

With reports from the Secretary of War and Navy before him urging that officers of the rank of lieutenant colonel and commander and below be untouched in any reduction in flight pay, President Roosevelt referred the matter to the Budget for study. Assistant Director of the Budget Lowery told the JOURNAL yesterday that no report had as yet been sent to the White House.

General Hagood to Third Army

Work was received in Washington this week that Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, USA, plans to relinquish command of the Fourth Army and Seventh Corps Area at Omaha, Neb., Oct. 1st or 2nd and to leave for San Antonio, Tex., where he is under orders to command the Eighth Corps Area there and the Third Army, comprising the Fourth and Eighth Corps Areas.

General Hagood relieves Maj. Gen.

Edwin B. Winans, who is coming to Washington, before being retired for age the end of October.

General Hagood, was born at Orangeburg, South Carolina, June 16, 1873, son of Lee and Kathleen Rosa (Tobin) Hagood. He is descended from William Hagood, a native of Virginia, but of English parentage, who married Sarah Johnson and in 1776 removed to South Carolina. His son, Johnson, who married Anne Gordon O'Hear, was a prominent South Carolina lawyer and an early experimenter in electricity and physics. His son, Doctor James O. Hagood, who married Indiana Allen, was the grandfather of our subject. One of his uncles was Brigadier General Johnson Hagood, Confederate Army, afterwards Governor of South Carolina. Another was James R. Hagood, who rose from sergeant major to command of his regiment and who is said to have been the youngest colonel in the Army of Northern Virginia. On his mother's side he was descended from two Revolutionary soldiers—John Booth, killed at Hutson's Ferry, and James Overstreet, killed at the battle of Cowpens. Johnson Hagood attended the University of South Carolina in 1888-91, and in 1896 was graduated at the United States Military Academy, being assigned to the Artillery.

He served, successively, at Ft. Adams, R. I.; Ft. Trumbull, Conn.; St. Augustine, Fla.; and Sullivan's Island and Ft. Fremont, S. C. During the Spanish-American War he superintended the mounting of guns and mortars on Sullivan's Island for the defense of Charleston, S. C. During 1901-04 he was on duty at the U. S. Military Academy as Instructor in the Department of Philosophy. After serving a year in command of the 69th Company, Coast Artillery, at Ft. Monroe, Virginia, he was made Assistant to the Chief of Artillery, in July, 1905, continuing in that duty until November, 1908. He was then detailed to the General Staff Corps and served as assistant to two Chiefs of the Army General Staff, Major Generals J. Franklin Bell and Leonard Wood, until March, 1912. While on this duty he was a member of several boards appointed to draw up plans for seacoast fortifications, was prominently identified with the installation of range finding and fire control apparatus for the coast defenses and designed a mortar deflection board which was manufactured by the Ordnance Department and is still part of the standard equipment of the Coast Artillery. He also designed a tripod mount for telescopic sights and a modification of the sighting platform of disappearing gun carriages.

While on duty in Washington he was also in charge of Army legislation and was instrumental in the enactment of a number of important military laws—notably the Act of 1907 (which separated the Coast and Field Artillery and gave a more modern organization to both branches), the Army Pay Bill of 1908, and the Extra Officers' Bill of 1911. He served on the Board of Directors of the Army Mutual Aid Association and as Treasurer of the Army and Navy Club. In the latter capacity he had much to do with the financing and construction of the new club building, erected in 1911. He was in command of Ft. Flagler, Washington, in 1912-13, and in 1913-15 was in the Philippine Islands, serving first as Coast Defense Officer of the Department and then as Adjutant of the Coast Defenses of Manila and Subic Bays. While in the Philippines he was prominently identified with the development of what is known as the Corregidor project, a plan for preparing the Philippines to withstand a long siege. On his return to the United States, in 1915, he was placed in command of the Coast Defenses of San Diego, California, and in July, 1916, he also had charge of Military Operations along the Mexican Border from the Pacific Coast to Mountain Springs, California. He commanded the Business Men's Training Camp at Salt Lake City, Utah, in August, 1916, and was then ordered to Charleston, South Carolina, for artillery staff duty.

Having reached the grade of Colonel, August 5, 1917, he was appointed commander of the 7th Regiment, Coast Artillery, and later in the same month proceeded overseas with his command. After training his regiment for a month in Borden Camp, England, and Mailly-le-Camp, France, he was selected by General Pershing to reorganize and command the Advance Section, Line of Communications. In December he was appointed Chief of Staff, Line of Communications, and in February, 1918, was designated by General Pershing as President of a board to reorganize the whole system of Supply and Staff Administration of the American Expeditionary Forces. Upon the recommendation of this board the Services of Supply was created, Colonel Hagood (promoted to Brigadier General in April, 1918) being appointed Chief of Staff of the organization and serving in that capacity until after the Armistice. He was designated October 20, 1918, by General Pershing to be Major General National Army, but the appointment failed on account of the Armistice. In a cablegram to the War Department, dated July 15, 1919, he was recommended by General Pershing for promotion to Brigadier General, Regular Army, and again was especially recommended by General Pershing in a letter to the Secretary of War, dated June 16, 1920—"For the best interests of the service, as his record and experience in the World War renders him particularly competent to fill one of the more important positions in our new army."

From December, 1918, to May, 1919, he was with the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine as commander of the artillery of the Third Army. On his return to the United States, in May, he was assigned to and commanded the Railway Artillery at Camp Eustis, Virginia. He was returned to the grade of Colonel, Regular Army, June 30, 1920, and three days later was appointed Brigadier General, Regular Army. In September, 1920, he was transferred to Atlanta, Ga., and commanded the 4th Coast Artillery District. In January, 1922, he was transferred to the Philippines and assigned to the command of the 12th Field Artillery and Camp Stotsenburg. General Hagood rebuilt the post at Camp Stotsenburg with soldier labor, established schools and instituted other improvements, for which he was highly commended by his superiors. Was President of the Army and Navy Club of Manila.

Upon his return to the United States, in March, 1924, via China, he was assigned to the 2nd Coast Artillery District, Ft. Totten, New York, which he commanded until August, 1925. He was promoted Major General, Regular Army, August 2, 1925, and assigned to the command of the 4th Corps Area, with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia, where he served until March, 1926. From there he was transferred once more to the Philippines, this time in command of the Philippine Division, where he was commended for having "vastly improved the appearance of his post and raised the tone and morale of the Philippine Division to a remarkable degree."

He received the American Distinguished Service Medal, the Cross of Commander in the Legion of Honor, the Cross of Commander in the Order of the Crown of Italy. Besides being recommended for promotion to Major General, National Army, by General Pershing during the war, he was twice so recommended by Major General Harbord and three times by Major General Kernan. He received the degree of LL.D. from the University of South Carolina in 1921. He is a member of the Society of the Cincinnati (collateral descendant of Captain Thomas Gordon); Sons of the American Revolution (descendant of John Booth); United Confederate Veterans; Spanish War Veterans; Military Order of the World War; and American Legion. Honorary Rotarian. Author of The Services of Supply, a Memoir of the Great War, and of numerous professional papers. He was married December 14, 1899, to Jean Gordon, daughter of James H. Small of Charleston, South Carolina, and has four children—Jean Gordon, wife of Lt. James L. Holloway, jr., USN; Alice Kathleen, wife of E. Smythe Gambrell, Atlanta, Ga., attorney; Johnson, jr., Second Lieutenant, Field Artillery; and Frenchy.

OBITUARIES

Rear Adm. Edwin A. Anderson, USN-Ret., died in Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 23.

Admiral Anderson was born in Wilmington, N. C., July 16, 1860, and was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1878. After service with the Atlantic Squadron during the Spanish-American War he was attached to the Asiatic Fleet and commanded the USS General Alava and the USS Callao. He commanded the 2nd Torpedo Flotilla in 1906 and 1907 and was in charge of the Naval Recruiting Station, Cincinnati, Ohio. In 1908 he served as Ordnance officer, Mare Island Navy Yard and commanded the USS Yorktown in 1910. He was Captain of the Philadelphia Navy Yard in 1911, assumed command of the USS New Hampshire in 1913. In 1916 he attended the Naval War College and was supervisor of American patrol detachment and later was in command of the Patrol Detachment of Atlantic Fleet during the World War. In 1919 he commanded Cruiser Squadron 1, Atlantic Fleet, and was appointed Commander, U. S. Naval Forces, European waters, with the rank of Vice Admiral in 1922. He was commissioned Commander-in-Chief U. S. Asiatic Fleet with the rank of Admiral in 1923.

Admiral Anderson retired from active duty in 1924 after more than 40 years service in the Navy. He was advanced five numbers in rank for extraordinary and conspicuous conduct during the Spanish-American War in the USS Marblehead. He was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his services in command of the 2nd Regiment of Bluejackets at Vera Cruz, Mexico, 1914, while he was in command of the USS New Hampshire and the Distinguished Service Medal for "exceptionally meritorious service in a duty of great responsibility in organizing and in the administration and operation of the American patrol detachment and in developing arrangements for the cooperation of air, surface, and submarine craft. Also for his successful cooperation with the Cuban Government in making the available vessels of the Cuban Navy efficient and ready for service."

Funeral services were held in Arlington National Cemetery, Sept. 25, Capt. Sidney K. Evans, Chaplain Corps, USN, officiating.

Admiral Anderson is survived by his widow, Mrs. M. L. Anderson, Wilmington, N. C., and his son, Lt. Comdr. Lorain Anderson, USN-Ret.

Maj. Gen. William Murray Black, USA-Ret., former chief of Army Engineers, died Sept. 24 at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C. He was 78.

General Black received his early education at Franklin and Marshall College, in Pennsylvania, and graduated from West Point in 1877 and served at various Army posts until his appointment as District Commissioner in 1897. He held the rank of captain at that time and had just completed a tour of duty as assistant in charge of fortification work in the office of the chief of engineers.

At the outbreak of the Spanish War he was made chief engineer of the Puerto Rico campaign, and in January, 1899, was made chief of engineers of the Department of Havana on the staff of Gen. Ludlow. In May, 1900, he became chief of engineers of the Division of Cuba, on the staff of Gen. Leonard Wood, remaining on the island until the following summer.

His other posts of duty included several years in the capital observing the work of the new Panama Canal Co., under orders of the Isthmian Canal Commission; adviser to the department of public works, provisional government of Cuba, 1906-1909; in charge of river and harbor improvements, District No. 1, New York, 1909 to 1916; division engineer, Eastern division, river and harbor improvements, 1909-16, and chairman of the Inland Waterway Transportation Committee of the Council of National Defense.

He was commissioned a brigadier general, chief of engineers, in 1916, and promoted to major general the following year.

General Black retired from active service in 1919. An authority on river and harbor engineering, he was the author of several books on the subject, including several prizes by the American Society of Civil Engineers.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Black, 2723 N street, Washington, D. C., and three sons, Robert D., Maj. Percy G. Black, USA, and William Murray Black, Jr.

Col. William N. McKelvy, USMC-Ret., died at the Naval Hospital, Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucy McKelvy, a son, 1st Lt. William N. McKelvy, Jr., USMC, Marine Barracks, Quantico, Va., and a daughter, Mrs. William F. Hart, Washington, D. C.

Colonel McKelvy was born July 15, 1869, in Allegheny, Pa. He was appointed a Cadet Midshipman at the Naval Academy May 20, 1887, and was transferred to the Marine Corps and appointed a Second Lieutenant July 1, 1893. He was promoted to First Lieutenant June 20, 1897; Captain March 3, 1899; Major, June 16, 1906; Lieutenant Colonel, Aug. 29, 1916; and Colonel March 26, 1917.

During the Spanish-American War, he served with the Marine Battalion, North Atlantic Squadron, from April 22 to Sept. 20, 1898, and was appointed a Captain by brevet for distinguished conduct and public service in the presence of the enemy at Guantanamo, Cuba, June 11, 1898.

He landed at Colon, Panama, in December 1904, with a battalion of Marines organized for service on the Isthmus of Panama. From January 1907 to October 1908 he was a member of the staff of the Naval War College, Newport, R. I. In August, 1912, he left the United States on temporary expeditionary duty, in Cristobal, C. Z. He participated in the bombardment, assault and capture of the fortifications of Coyotepe and Barranca, Masaya, Nicaragua; and entered with the force which took the city of Leon, Nicaragua. During 1916 he was Fleet Marine Officer of the Pacific Fleet.

In 1917 he joined the Second Provisional Marine Brigade in Santo Domingo, and commanded the 3rd Regiment of that Brigade. In October, 1917, he was assigned to command the 4th Regiment in Santo Domingo, in which capacity he served until May, 1919, when he returned to the United States.

Following a tour of duty in command of the Marine Barracks, Navy Yard, Norfolk, Va., Colonel McKelvy was ordered to the Naval War College, Newport, R. I., to take the course of instruction, in August, 1922. He graduated and received a diploma in June, 1923, and in July was assigned to duty with the First Marine Brigade in the Republic of Haiti. He remained on that duty until June, 1925, when he returned to the United States.

He retired with the rank of Colonel, USMC, July 15, 1925.

Shipbuilding Planning Committee

The "Code of Fair Competition of the Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Industry," approved by the President July 26, 1933, contains provision for a Committee for Planning and Fair Practice. This Committee consists of six members selected by the industry, and four members, without vote, appointed by the President. These latter are W. H. Davis, National Recovery Administration; Robert L. Hague of the Standard Shipping Company as Industrial and Consumer Advisor; J. S. McDonagh of the American Federation of Labor, Labor Advisor; Capt. Henry Williams, nominated by the Secretary of the Navy.

As the operation of the Code will have a very important bearing on the construction of naval vessels by private industry, it was deemed to be desirable by the Navy Department that it should be represented on the Code Committee. This view was accepted by General Johnson's Office and the membership of the committee was increased accordingly by one member to include the Navy.

CONSUMERS CREDIT COMPANY

'Of Inestimable Value'

We received a letter a few days ago from a Captain who had availed himself of the credit facilities of this bank, in which he said:

"If granted, this will be my fourth loan with you, and thru same I have been able to furnish my home, and centralize my debts. All of which has been of inestimable value to me."

Many Army and Navy officers have availed themselves of the services of this bank. It may be that we could also serve you. Write for detailed information.

Loans are made which are repaid by monthly deposits extending over a period of twelve months.

Mrs. Catherine H. Daly, who fell and broke her right hip at her home, No. 36 Ridge Street, Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 31, died in the Greenwich Hospital Sept. 19 in her seventy-fifth year. Mrs. Daly had resided in Greenwich for the past twenty-two years, having previously lived in Stamford, Conn., the greater part of her life. She was the widow of the late James Daly of Stamford.

She is survived by her son, Judge John T. Daly of Great Neck, Long Island, Major, JAG-Res, USA, and by three daughters, Mary C. Daly of Greenwich, Mrs. Orrin D. Bell of Ridgefield, Conn., and Mrs. Grace D. Wilbur of Riverside, Conn., also by four grandsons and one granddaughter. A Solemn High Requiem Mass was held for Mrs. Daly Sept. 21 at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Greenwich, followed by interment in the family plot in St. John's Cemetery, Springdale, Conn.

Lt. Col. Jason M. Walling, Inf., USA, died at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.

Colonel Walling was born in Clymer, N. Y., Aug. 31, 1878. He served at private Hospital Corps, from Apr. 2, 1900, to July 22, 1901; appointed 2nd lieutenant of Infantry Feb. 2, 1901; accepted July 23, 1901; promoted 1st lieutenant Aug. 19, 1907; captain July 1, 1916; assigned to the QMC May 19, 1917; promoted major (temporary) Aug. 5, 1917, serving in that grade until Aug. 3, 1918; promoted lieutenant colonel of Inf., U. S. Army, July 30, 1918; accepted Aug. 4, 1918; relieved from the QMC Aug. 27, 1918; honorably discharged as lieutenant colonel Apr. 15, 1920; promoted major, Regular Army, July 1, 1920; assigned to Inspector General's Department Aug. 27, 1920 to Sept. 25, 1923; promoted lieutenant colonel Nov. 5, 1923. He was a member of the General Staff Corps Eligible List; graduated from the Command and General Staff School, 1925; and was a Distinguished Graduate of the Army School of the Line, 1914. At the time of his death his station was at Toledo, Ohio.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maud R. Walling, and a sister, Mrs. L. J. Vacek, of Park Rapids, Minn.

Mr. Joseph M. Michaelson, Chief of Designing and Consulting Engineer of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, Navy Department, died September 17, 1933, at his residence 2548 University Place, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Michaelson was born Sept. 23, 1861. He received his degree in Civil Engineering at Cornell University, and later held responsible positions in the fields of bridge engineering and general construction for sixteen years before entering the Government service, Dec. 17, 1901.

As the Bureau's Chief Designing and Consulting Engineer Mr. Michaelson was intimately connected with practically every major project of a heavy engineering character, and during the past thirty-two years has ranked as one of the outstanding authorities in this country on the design of floating and graving docks, heavy cranes, airship hangars, and similar types of construction. His long and varied experience on special problems of this character, his exceptional mathematical and designing ability and sound practical judgment made him invaluable to the Bureau. After passing the retirement age his retention on duty was authorized on account of his special qualifications.

Mr. Michaelson is survived by his wife, Winifred McGregor Michaelson, two daughters, Winifred Michaelson and Mrs. Margaret Vycital, and one son Joseph.

The funeral was held September 19, 1933, and interment was at Fort Lincoln Cemetery in Washington.

The active and honorary pallbearers were: Capt. G. A. McKay, Capt. W. H. Allen, Capt. G. S. Burrell, Lt. Comdr. B. Moreell, Lt. Comdr. R. E. Thomas and Lt. Comdr. C. H. Cotter, all of the CEC, USN.

Col. Richard K. Cravens, USA-Ret., died at Wilmington, Del., Sept. 24.

Colonel Cravens was born in Fort Smith, Ark., Mar. 16, 1870. He entered the Army from the Indian Territory and served as 1st lieutenant, 1st Territorial Inf., from July 23, 1898 until mustered out Feb. 13, 1899; served as 1st lieutenant, 40th U. S. Inf., from Aug. 17, 1899 until mustered out June 24, 1901. He was appointed 1st lieutenant, AC, Regular Army, Sept. 23, 1901; accepted Mar. 6, 1902; promoted captain Jan. 25, 1907; major, CAC, May 15, 1917; lieutenant colonel (temporary) Aug. 5, 1917; served as adjutant general from Sept. 17, 1917; vacated rank of lieutenant colonel (temporary) June 27, 1918; promoted colonel, CAC, National Army, June 21, 1918; accepted June 27, 1918; honorably discharged as colonel, Mar. 15, 1920; promoted lieutenant colonel, Regular Army, July 1, 1920; transferred to Finance Department, Aug. 18, 1920; relieved as adjutant general, Aug. 30, 1920; transferred to adjutant general's department, July 11, 1922; promoted colonel Feb. 2, 1926; retired for disability in line of duty on Mar. 8, 1927; placed on active duty from Mar. 9, 1927, to June 30, 1932.

He is survived by his son, Maj. William M. Cravens, CAC, USA, who is on duty with the Organized Reserves at Wilmington, Del.

CAC Reserves Win Sabers

Announcement was made this week of the award of trophies by the United States Coast Artillery Association to the Coast Artillery Reserve officer in each Corps Area who earned the greatest number of credit hours by means of extension school work during the past fiscal year. Each of the winners will receive a saber with his name etched on the blade. The trophies are the result of a donation by an unnamed former Coast Artillery Reserve Officer.

The nine winners for the past fiscal year are:

First Corps Area—Capt. Ralph A. Stevens, jr., 615th CA, Fitchburg, Mass.
Second Corps Area—1st Lt. Godfrey von Hofe, 908th CA, Forest Hills, N. Y.
Third Corps Area—Lt. Col. Robert R. Hendon, 913th CA, Washington, D. C.

Fourth Corps Area—2nd Lt. James M. White (inactive), Nashville, Tenn.

Fifth Corps Area—Maj. John Lee Nlesse, 535th CA, Indianapolis, Ind.

Sixth Corps Area—2nd Lt. Harmon A. Brown, 949th CA, Chicago, Ill.

Seventh Corps Area—2nd Lt. Wilfred D. Darling, 955th CA, Crosby, Minn.

Eighth Corps Area—1st Lt. Carl T. Baer, 972nd CA, Dallas, Tex.

Ninth Corps Area—2nd Lt. Harold I. Strahn, 975th CA, Los Angeles, Calif.

2nd Lt. Wilfred D. Darling was the high scorer for the entire United States having earned 611 credit hours. He took 32 subcourses consisting of 242 lessons. Lieutenant Darling is now on CCC duty at Indian Diggins, Calif.

Maj. Gen. John W. Gulick, chief of the Coast Artillery Corps, wrote a letter of congratulation to each of the winners.

Retired Officers Association

Preparing for a renewal of the drive against anti-service legislation at the next session of Congress, Col. A. T. Marx, USMC-Ret, president of the Retired Officers Association, is addressing letters to officers of the services advising them that "an amazing amount of influence is being exerted to pass vicious legislation, designed to eliminate the present system of retirement fund and unload the entire responsibility and expense on you."

Colonel Marx urges the officers to "discuss with at least three brother officers" the facts about the situation, to send him their names, and a contribution.

Financial Digest

The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 90 leading cities on September 20 shows a decrease for the week of $30,000,000 in net demand deposits, and increases of $18,000,000 in time deposits and $12,000,000 in loans and investments.

Loans on securities declined $80,000,000 at reporting member banks in the New York district and $70,000,000 at all reporting member banks, and increased $7,000,000 in the Chicago district. "All other" loans increased $9,000,000 in the San Francisco district, $8,000,000 in the New York district, $6,000,000 in the Chicago district and $34,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Holdings of United States Government securities increased $65,000,000 in the New York district and $42,000,000 at all reporting member banks, and declined $18,000,000 in the Boston district, $6,000,000 in the St. Louis district and $5,000,000 in the Dallas district. Holdings of other securities increased $6,000,000.

Borrowings of weekly reporting member banks from Federal Reserve banks aggregated $20,000,000 on September 20, a reduction of $2,000,000 for the week.

Licensed member banks formerly included in the condition statement of member banks in 101 leading cities, but not now included in the weekly statement, had total loans and investments of $885,000,000 and net demand, time, and Government deposits of $912,000,000 on September 20.

CAREFUL DRIVING MEANS GREATER SAVINGS

SAVINGS WILL BE OVER 50% IF ALL OUR CARS ARE DRIVEN WITH MORE CARE. The cost of Auto Accidents in 1932 in the U. S. was about $2,000,000,000—as much as that of our Public Schools—more than was spent for new cars. GREATER CARE IN DRIVING INCREASES DIVIDENDS AND SAVES MEMBERS MONEY AS WELL. For 1929 to 1931, the average losses were 50.4% of the earned premiums. For 19 months, Jan. 1, 1932, to July 31, 1933, this % was 39%. This decrease, with the constant decrease in expenses, has resulted in decreases in 'net cost' of Automobile coverage from 62% for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931, to 54% for the year ended July 31, 1933. Dividends are now greater than they have ever been before. MEMBERS ARE URGED TO DRIVE WITH MORE CARE AND THUS CUT LOSSES SO THAT THE GOAL "MORE THAN 50% SAVINGS" MAY BE REACHED SOON. CCC Purchases

Robert Fechner, Director of Emergency Conservation Work, today announced that a comprehensive program looking toward the welfare of the CCC men during the winter enrollment period beginning in October was being pushed rapidly in every section of the country. This program, he said, called for the purchase, through the Quartermaster General's Office of the War Department, of millions of dollars worth of winter clothing, the construction of winter quarters for 300,000 men and the purchase of several thousand stoves needed for heating the wooden barracks in which the men will be housed. Approximately 550 new camps will be built and 900 others are to be winter-proofed and new buildings to make them habitable for cold weather.

Director Fechner said he had been advised that the purchases of wearing apparel for the new camps and the construction of new camp buildings would supply a market for the sale of large quantities of clothing, shoes, stoves, lumber and other building materials, hardware and piping for plumbing.

The principal items of clothing which are being purchased or procured from Government supplies for members of the Corps follow:

Windbreaker or lumberjackets, 207,400; drawers, winter (pairs), 270,726; gloves, winter (pairs), 306,193; overshoes, arctic (pairs) 178,593; undershirts, winter, 33,472; comforts, 347,643; socks, wool, heavy, 1,955,997; mattresses, 131,600; covers, mattress, 150,000; caps, winter, 100,022; jerkins, felt, 150,000; trousers, wool or corduroy, 84,459; and undershirts, winter, 92,703.

The wearing apparel purchases represent articles included in the Quartermaster General's CCC procurement program for this fall and early winter. The men of the corps will need millions of other items of equipment to keep them warm and well during the winter period.

Marine Battalion On Wyoming

The USS Wyoming, training ship, disembarked midshipmen at Annapolis, Md., Sept. 27, upon the completion of their summer practice cruise, and proceeded to Norfolk, Va., where on Oct. 4 a training battalion of Marines from Quantico, will be taken on board. The Wyoming which has been employed with the midshipmen's summer cruises since June 2, will undergo a machinery overhaul in the Norfolk Navy Yard and later will operate at sea, basing at Norfolk.

The Wyoming will not have a scheduled itinerary. It was stated at the Navy Department that the cruise is a regular training one and has no reference to the Cuban situation. It was admitted, however, that "of course, the Marines on board will be available for Cuban service if necessary."

The Marine battalion, which will be commanded by Lt. Col. John Potts, USMC, has been undergoing training as one of the battalions of the 7th Regiment, at Quantico, and will be composed of 27 officers and 514 enlisted men of the Marine Corps. These Marines, many of whom are recruits due for seagoing training, will be given similar training as the battalions which were embarked on the USS Arkansas and the USS Wyoming last year.

Lieutenant Colonel Potts was recently promoted to that rank, after 26 years of service. Maj. Clifton B. Cates, USMC, will be executive officer of the Battalion.

The Wyoming, commanded by Capt. Vaughn K. Coman, USN, left Annapolis Aug. 4, with more than 400 midshipmen of the First and Third classes and has visited Funchal, Madeira Islands, the Narragansett Bay area and operated off the Virginia Capes.

Medical Care of CCC

The War Department announced the following this week regarding the disposition of members of Civilian Conservation Corps who are physically incapacitated:

"1. All members of the Civilian Conservation Corps sick on date of discharge will continue to receive medical care until the treatment authorized under existing regulations has been completed.

"2. Those members of the Civilian Conservation Corps sick on date of discharge who do not desire to re-enroll will be discharged from the Corps as of that date but will continue to receive treatment as indicated in paragraph 1. The reimbursement of the proper agencies for their treatment in Government hospitals or for their hospitalization in civilian hospitals where such action is unavoidable will be a proper charge against Civilian Conservation Corps funds.

"3. Members of the Civilian Conservation Corps desiring to re-enroll, if then suffering from disease or injury which is curable within a reasonable time or which will not prevent the performance of duty during a second enrollment period, will be allowed to re-enroll. Members suffering from disease or injury which is not curable within a reasonable time or which will prevent the performance of duty during the second enrollment period will be discharged, and their cases handled as indicated in paragraphs 1 and 2.

"4. Members of the Civilian Conservation Corps not to be re-enrolled and who are sick in civilian hospitals from disease or injury requiring prolonged treatment will be transferred as promptly as possible to Government hospitals.

"5. Members of the Civilian Conservation Corps who, on date of discharge, are suffering from disability requiring prolonged care and who are proper charges upon the United States Employees' Compensation Commission will, as soon as proper arrangements have been made with the Commission, be turned over to that Commission for further care."

A New Deal for the Service Men

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

I have sent the following to the San Diego Union:

"While we all realize that the NRA works for the greatest good to the greatest number and that small minorities must suffer, isn't it about time that the 20,000 service men in San Diego and its vicinity receive a little relief as the cost of living mounts?"

"They are still contributing 15 per cent of their pay while the mighty power of the government boosts prices. Yesterday I bought a chicken for roasting at 32 cents a pound. Your paper gives the wholesale, undressed price as 14 cents a pound. Once you said, 'Let us agitate for a reform to bring the law into line with what is right.'"

Keep up the good work!

Brig. Gen. Ret.

Enlisted Men's Pay

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

Knowing that you have the service at heart, I just wonder if you could find space in your valuable Journal for a few words from an old timer.

So much has been said and written about the forgotten man, the farmer and the man "down under," isn't it about time some one mentioned the regular army enlisted men? Evidently it is assumed that the relatives of the enlisted personnel are all millionaires, if that is not the case then why are they so discriminated against? Why were the fathers, mothers and wives of the boys in the regular service not given the same ray of hope as those relatives of the boys in the CCC, or is it again assumed that they are immune from want and suffering. Why was the pay of the regular army enlisted men not raised (instead of reduced) to that of the boys in the CCC and each man required to allot so much of his pay to the folks at home?

Along with the 15 per cent reduction as a government employee, the pay of a great many regular army men has been still further reduced by suspension of their qualification pay, making a total reduction of over 23 per cent; his initial clothing allowance has been reduced from $84.00 to $19.00 and he is required to purchase most of his outer uniforms in order to pass inspections. During the past three years the writer has purchased outer uniforms out of his own funds to the value of $79.00, equalling, within a few dollars, the initial allowance for that enlistment, and has kept within the maintenance allowance, what is the result, a saving in allowance of $84.00. What happens then? His final statement shows that amount due him in cash. Then what? Oh! that man has saved three-quarters the amount allowed him for clothes for a three year enlistment. What is the result? $19.00 initial allowance.

In a great number of cases regular army men on duty with CCC companies have suffered humiliations almost beyond endurance by having some CCC boy, whose pay has been raised to $45.00 per month, remark that he was getting more pay than the regular army men and that they could "go to hell." Well, we may go to hell, but the devil will know he has been in a fight.

It would seem that enlisted men on duty with CCC companies could be paid in accordance with the pay received by those in like positions in the regular establishment, surely their problems are much more varied and exacting.

Every man in the service is behind our commander-in-chief, President Roosevelt, in his battle to win the war against depression, and we know that he is a just man, and when his attention is called to the facts, he will not forget us.

Over 20 years.

Sergeant's Pay

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

In reply to letter on Page 1048 of the August 26th, 1933, issue. Subject: Sergeant's Pay.

The Tech. Sgt. that wrote that article must evidently intend for a Master Sgt. with a family that retires from the service to live in the sticks or tall timbers with a shack to call a home. Furthermore he rates $58.89 per month as a mere trifle. What is he doing in the Army at present when everyone including officers are trying to make ends meet? Many have let their private insurance lapse and are walking instead of using their car to enable them to educate their children. The following is a very rough estimate taken from real estate rentals around the San Francisco Bay Regions, not taking in the best locations, besides the difference of pay and allowances upon retirement.

Monthly Estimates

Difference of pay	$23.63
Rent. (Not the best by any means) ..	35.00
Fuel, heat and light (roughly) ..	10.00
Clothing	2.00
Water (for lawn and household use) Free in the Army.....	3.00
Collection of garbage. (Let the prisoners do it)	2.00
Difference on purchase of household supplies, etc.	4.00
Articles you receive, due gratis without charge, brooms, toilet paper, rakes, shovels, lawn mowers, etc.	3.00

Loss per month upon retirement, $82.63

The above estimate does not include medical supplies for yourself and family you receive from the post hospital.

In addition to the above the State of California has added a 2 1/4% sales tax on every purchase.

This Tech. Sgt. must be a single man or else he is darn foolish and never made any purchases. Furthermore it is supposed he has in about two hitches and ought to be a Master Sgt. He should have been in the old army before the war, 9 and 10 years between grades in the Technical Branches of the Army. This does not take in Regimental Appointments.

If the Tech. Sgt. has too many $58.89 checks laying around he should contribute to the Army Relief Fund or help some poor Private's family in distress.

A Master Sgt.

A Fair Deal

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

I am one of the Army widows whose pension has been cut in half. At present that, with the Army insurance, is my whole living expense. Only by doing all my own work—cooking and sewing—I am able to keep from debt.

So I am adding my voice to the other widows asking a fair deal.

M. W.

P. S. I inclose a plea also for all ladies to do their part and this is my contribution—

N. R. A. Entreaty

Ladies, ladies, do your part.
We will need your aid to bring
Normalcy and happiness,
Where the Eagle spreads his wing.

Ladies, ladies, won't you buy
And swift prosperity bring?
Buy now, and for future need,
Where the Eagle spreads his wing.

Ladies, there are starving souls,
With hearts too sore to sing—
Dragging feet and suffering eyes,
Yet—the Eagle spreads his wing.

Oh! Ladies!—do your part
To cure this hideous thing,
Brought by greed and selfishness,
Help spread the Eagle's wing.

Gracious Father, lend Thy aid
To those who do their part—bring
Peace to a sad—grieving world;
Bless the mighty Eagle's wing!

CCC Activities

Alder, Mont.—The Visitor's Day has come and gone. Sept. 17 saw the largest group of visitors to the 955th Company has seen since its establishment. Virginia City, Dillon, Alder, Twin Bridges, Sheridan, Pony, Ennis, Laurin, Butte and Helena were represented.

The day was started with a track-meet at 11 o'clock. Among the events were an obstacle race, pole vault, high jump, 100-yard dash, relay race, tug-of-war, javelin throw, basketball throw, football throw, and last but not least, a greased-pig chase, that literally brought down the house. Foreman John Stimpson's crew was winner of the meet and Assistant Leader Highlight of Dillon was individual high point man.

Dinner for members and their guests was served at one o'clock. The afternoon was concluded with a buffet supper at five, and the mess-hall was cleared for dancing. An orchestra composed of Lt. E. C. Bruce, Justin Mace, Albert Marler, Leslie Hjort and Bill Graham furnished a program of modern dance music and old-time dance numbers till the strains of "Home Sweet Home" sent everyone on their way. All in all, the day was a success in every way—thanks to be given to Lts. Dorgan and Bruce, Sergeant Beach and Assistant Leader Highlight who, as the committee in charge, sponsored the program of events.

Tupper Lake, N. Y.—Baseball in District No. 1, CCC, came to an official end on Saturday, Sept. 23, with the game for the championship of the District played between Camp No. 8, Fish Creek Ponds, commanded by Capt. John S. Miller, 28th Inf., and Camp No. 32, Thendara, commanded by Maj. Richard S. Dodson, CAC.

Col. H. R. Smalley, commanding District No. 1, presented the medals to the winning team.

Fish Creek Ponds, N. Y.—A District Field Day for the CCC men of the seven camps of District No. 1, Northern Adirondacks was held at Camp No. 8, Fish Creek Ponds, Sept. 9. About seven hundred CCC boys attended and had a fine time. They came in CCC Trucks from their various camps and displayed fine enthusiasm and sportsmanship during the various events.

The winners of events received watch-fob medals with gold as first prize, silver as second and bronze as third.

Brig. Gen. Charles D. Roberts, USA, presented the prizes to the winners. Col. Howard R. Smalley, Cavalry, USA, commanding District I, and a board of officers arranged and supervised the Field Day.

The successful entrants were:

Tug-of-War—First Place—Camp No. 20, Benson Mines; Second Place—Camp No. 8, Fish Creek Ponds.

Rowboat Race—First Place—West of Camp No. 8, Fish Creek Ponds; Second Place—Jewett of Camp No. 32, Thendara; Third Place—Stone of Camp No. 10, Eighth Lake.

Camps numbers 8 and 20 each scored 36 points, a championship banner was awarded to each of them.

Baltimore—Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding the Third Corps Area, is scheduled to leave Baltimore Sunday, Sept. 24, on a three days' tour of inspection of Civilian Conservation Corps companies in southwestern Virginia. Twelve camps are listed on the itinerary, and they are located in the vicinity of Luray, Skyland, Big Meadows, Elkton, Natural Bridge, Salem, Speedwell, Bastian, Narrows and Clifton Forge.

Baltimore—A letter carrying the commendation of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, Third Corps Area commander, has been sent to Camp No. 139, at Promised Land, Pa., citing the heroic action of Morris Seidman, a member of CCC Company

No. 337, in rescuing three girls on August 25.

The girls were in a rowboat on Promised Land Lake and drifting rapidly toward the spillway. Seidman jumped into the rushing water about two feet deep at the top of the spillway and stopped the boat as one end had started over the falls. The current was so strong because of the severe storm that he was unable to haul the craft back unassisted to still water. He did, however, hold the boat until help arrived. The quick action of Seidman prevented the girls from dropping about twenty-five feet into a cataract.

Boston—Outlining the procedure to be followed in the case of men now at the camps who wish to reenroll for the second six months period, Maj. Gen. Fox Conner, commanding the 1st Corps Area, announces that plans have been made for the reenrollment mission the object of which is to bring the Corps up to full strength in line with the President's instructions to provide employment to youths now unemployed to fill the places of the men who leave the Corps.

Under the plan none of the 21,470 men now at the New England camps who wish to continue in the Corps, will be given formal discharges but will merely sign a ten-word indorsement on their original enrollment papers accepting employment in the Corps for another six months.

It was pointed out that the exact number of vacancies will not be known until October 1 when the CCC men now at the camps and who wish to continue in the Corps, must reenroll.

It is anticipated that actual enrollment of new members to fill the vacancies will commence about October 15, it was said.

Meanwhile, General Conner and his staff officers are completing details of the reenrollment program to the end that, the mission, once known, will be carried out with the same rapidity which characterized the army's organization of the Conservation Corps and its concentration at work camps in the six States.

Commended For Life Saving

Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt has sent letters of commendation to Paul Burt Fickes, Chief Signalman, USN, and Benjamin Franklin Lee, Coxswain, USN, attached to the USS Lexington, for rescuing two women from drowning in Long Beach, Calif., on July 16, 1933.
